Labor Day Toll High Across U.S.

'When Will They Ever Learn?'

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Rifles cracked and drums rolled for the last time today for four New Hampshire National Guardsmen killed in Vietnam last week when their truck struck a land mine.

But for the fifth victim buried Monday from St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church there were no rifles, no muffled drums. Just a trio of folk singers asking, "Where have all the soldiers gone?"

Answering, "Gone to graveyards every one. When will they ever learn?"

The mass at St. Catherine's was for Army Spec. 5 Richard E. Genest, 24, of Manchester. His pretty widow, Brenda, 20, said, "I am against war. Dick was against it. And the funeral was a protest against it."

Today's services, in three Manchester churches, were for Spec. 4 Roger E. Robischaud, 24; S.Sgt. Richard P. Raymond, 27; Spec. 4 Guy A. Blanchette, 22, and Spec. 4 Gaetan J. Beaudoin, 20.

They were buried here in Mount Calvary Cemetery, where Genest was buried. The five guardsmen were members of the 3rd Battalion, 197th Artillery. They had been neighbors here and were scheduled to return with their unit from Vietnam this Thursday.

Mrs. Genest barred military ceremonies at her husband's funeral, just as she refused on Saturday to accept the flag which draped his coffin when it arrived at Grenier Field.

Four double fatality accidents and one which claimed four lives helped boost Wisconsin's Labor Day weekend traffic toll to 28 by today. That is eight more than last year and six less than the record bloodletting of 1965.

The deaths, in addition to one early today, brought Wisconsin's 1969 count to 728, compared with 777 on this date in record 1968.

Gary Franke, 19, of rural Mayville, was pronounced dead on arrival at a Fond du Lac hospital early today after his auto struck the back of a parked semi trailer truck on State 49, west of Brownsville in Dodge County.

Traffic accidents across the nation claimed 608 lives during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

Although late reports were expected to raise the toll higher, it appeared the final figure would fall short of the Labor Day record of 688, set during last year's observance.

David Hopper, 18, of New Lisbon, died Monday when his car ran off a curve north of the city, rolled and burned, officials said.

Robert Bourget, 19, of rural Cadott, died Monday of injuries suffered Sunday night in Chippewa County. Authorities said Bourget was alone in a car which left County Trunk S and overturned.

Two persons died early Monday in a Vernon County accident. Killed when a car struck a bridge on State 82 west of Hillsboro were Raymond Campbell, 18, of La Farge and Raymond Sorensen, 18, of Waukesha.

Two other persons, a young mother and her daughter, were killed Monday when the car in which they were riding went out of control and left a Dane County road near Belleville. The victims were Mrs. Vicki L. Campbell, 20, and her daughter, Dedra 3, of Madison.

Darryl Hensler, 18, of Watertown, died early Monday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in Watertown.

John Robinson, 18, of Whitefish Bay, suffered fatal injuries early Monday when the car he was driving left a Washburn County road west of Minong and struck a tree.

Two St. Paul, Minn., residents died in separate northern Wisconsin accidents Sunday night. Roberta Ann Gage, 18, lost her life when a car struck the embankment of a farm driveway after leaving a Polk County road east of Milltown. Mrs. Mary Danielson, 20, died when she was struck by a car as she and three companions were standing along State 64 near Somerset.

Mrs. Fern Amundson, 73, of rural Nekoosa, and Larry Deniston, 17, of Wisconsin Rapids, lost their lives in a Wood County collision Sunday. Another Wood County crash Sunday killed Clifford.

Reinforce South Vietnamese Americans Rush to Rescue

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters landed 400 American Air Cavalrymen on a battleground north of Saigon this afternoon to reinforce South Vietnamese commandos battered for three days by North Vietnamese troops.

At least 26 of the South Vietnamese troops were reported killed, 120 were wounded and 17 were missing. Four American Green Beret advisers with the South Vietnamese also were wounded.

The number of North Vietnamese killed was not known yet. Officers in the field said allied forces had been unable to sweep the battlefield because "every time we go out we get in trouble."

Find Enemy Camp

The fighting began Sunday when about 400 South Vietnamese commandos ran across a base camp of an enemy division 85 miles northeast of Saigon in jungled hills. The camp was 18 miles east of Song Be, a provincial capital the enemy division had been threatening.

The North Vietnamese struck back from all sides as the South Vietnamese came in. Helicopters flew in 400 fresh commandos to reinforce the embattled battalion. On Monday the South Vietnamese tried to push back into the area of Sunday's fighting but again ran into strong resistance.

Lt. Gen. Julian J. Ewell, commander of the U.S. 2nd Field Force, visited the battle area and ordered U.S. troops from the 1st Air Cavalry Division to reinforce the South Vietnamese. The Air Cavalrymen met no resistance as they drove into the triple-canopied jungles, and fighting reportedly appeared to taper off at least for the time being.

Although fighting picked up again in the area between Saigon and the Cambodian border, there was no indication that the upsurge was the new high point in the enemy's fall campaign which U.S. officers have been predicting for this week.

Today is the 24th anniversary of Ho Chi Minh's proclamation of the Vietnamese Republic, and American officers expect the enemy to mark the occasion with stepped-up attacks. But the action reported today resulted from allied sweeps and patrols rather than aggressive enemy action.

Government headquarters reported that other South Vietnamese forces killed 18 enemy soldiers with claymore mines Monday night in an ambush 31 miles northwest of Saigon.

In War Zone C, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, helicopter-borne troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division clashed with small units of North Vietnamese troops and reported killing 52 of the enemy. Three Americans were reported wounded.

Dive bombers and helicopter gunships from the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry regiment destroyed 72 enemy bunkers and killed 16 troops with machine guns and rockets in an area two miles from the Cambodian border and 70 miles northwest of Saigon, U.S. headquarters said.

'I'll be Off My Back in Two or Three Weeks'

A Mustachioed Rocky Bleier of Appleton catches up on sporting news in a Japanese newspaper Monday. He is recuperating from Vietnam war wounds he suffered two weeks ago when his platoon was ambushed by enemy troops south of Da Nang. The former Xavier High School and Notre Dame University star said today he expects to be fully recovered in time for the 1970 pro football season. "The doc said I'll be off my back in two or three weeks," he said. "After that, it'll be back to the States where I'll have to undergo physical therapy to strengthen my legs." Bleier, who played one year for the Pittsburgh Steelers before being drafted into the Army, has another year remaining on his military tour. He was just another patient in the hospital until the other patients — also wounded in the war — discovered he was a National Football League player. "Now they approach me for advice on football," he said. Bleier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bleier, 201 S. Walnut St., Appleton. (AP Wirephoto)

Central America in Path Francelia Churns Toward Coast

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Francelia raked the coral islands of Bahia with gale winds today as it churned across the Gulf of Honduras toward the coast of Central America.

Residents in coastal areas of Honduras, Guatemala and British Honduras were warned to prepare for 100-mile-an-hour winds and surging storm tides.

Francelia was expected to go ashore about noon. Forecasters said the storm's eye probably would pass near Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, the country's main Atlantic port.

Storm warnings extended from the British Honduras capital of Belize, 120 miles southward to La Ceiba, Honduras. Puerto Barrios is located about midway between the two cities, at the head of the Gulf of Honduras.

Francelia's target area traditionally has been hit by hurricanes, including some of the most intense storms of the century. A gigantic hurricane killed 1,500 people in Belize in 1931 and Hurricane Hattie killed 300 more in 1961.

Nixon Tells Governors To End Their 'Dreams'

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors not to look for an outpouring of new federal funds as a byproduct of peace in Vietnam.

The President also defended his welfare reform program in a speech to the 61st National Governors' Conference Monday and advised the state executives against trying to tamper with it.

But the conference was to act today on a resolution urging that the federal government take over the financing of the entire welfare system.

"He said he was going to put the money where the problems are," said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, chief promoter of the takeover proposal, a five-year plan which goes far beyond the Nixon recommendations.

Nixon flew from his summer White House in San Clemente, Calif., for the defense of his domestic programs, and told his critics:

"I make just one suggestion — we've been on a road for a long time that is leading us to disaster and when you're on the wrong road you get off and get on a new road."

Nixon told the governors at their black tie conference ball there are "hard budget and tax decisions ahead."

"Dreams of unlimited billions of dollars being released once the war in Vietnam ends are just that — dreams," he said. "True, there will be additional money—but the claims on it already are enormous."

Still Need Priorities

"There should be no illusion that what some call the peace and growth dividend will automatically solve our national problems or release us from the need to establish priorities."

"In order to find the money for new programs," said Nixon, "we will have to trim it out of old ones."

Said Democratic Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut: "I'm not so sure that if the war ended tomorrow there couldn't be billions of dollars. There must be. Frankly, I was disappointed in the speech. I had hoped to hear a speech of a constructive nature."

One of Nixon's chief advisers, Arthur Burns, counselor to the President, said Monday "of course there will" be more money available after the war.

Burns said if the conflict ended immediately it would free $8 billion in federal funds during the next 10 months. But he did not say whether prior claims already had committed such funds.

While Nixon rejected the notion of a peace bonus, he did tell the governors:

"I can assure you of this: We are not simply going to tell you the states have a job to do; we are going to help you find the money."

2 Officers of Evans Face Court-Martial

MANILA (AP) — The U.S. Navy today ordered a court-martial for the junior officer of the destroyer for the commanding officer of the destroyer Frank E. son, 28, of Kansas City, Kan. Evans and the officer of the but a Navy spokesman said Adm. Bringle would deal with him in a nonjudicial hearing.

The Australian navy already has cleared the Melbourne's skipper at a court-martial of negligence.

The Melbourne and the Evans collided during night maneuvers in the South China Sea. The destroyer was acting as part of the carrier's screen and was changing station from ahead of the Melbourne to astern of her. The carrier cut the destroyer in half, sinking the bow half.

McLemore and Ramsey were charged with negligence and dereliction of duty. Adm. Bringle said he based these "extremely serious" charges on the investigation conducted at Subic in August into the collision.

McLemore, who was asleep in his cabin at the time of the collision, is charged with failure to wake up.

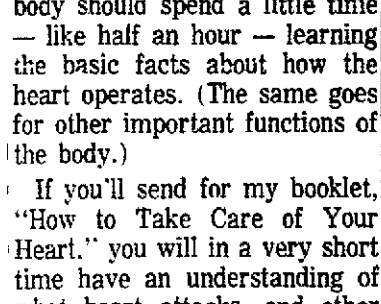

No court martial was ordered.

Imagination Takes the Day at SAC Fair

Miss Patty Treutinger and Miss Mary Hooyman manned the needlework and handicrafts booth when the Sheltered Activity Center had its summer fair Thursday morning at St. Mary School cafeteria. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Participants in the summer session of the Sheltered Activity Center displayed their creative and inventive abilities at their fair Thursday morning in the St. Mary School cafeteria. Items for sale ranged from embroidered dresser scarves, cosmetic cases, decorative place mats and colorful burlap flowers made by the women to handsomely refurbished furniture done by the men. Skill and imagination were exhibited throughout, as well as enthusiasm for doing a job well.

The mothers of the students contributed to the fair's success by providing refreshments and baked goods for a sale.

To complete the atmosphere, members of the Up With People and several other volunteers entertained with songs and music.

Mrs. John Grootemont receives a pamphlet as she enters the fair from Mike Mabie while Neal Chudacoff looks on. Below, Mrs. David Van Ryzin and Mrs. Donald Warner are served refreshments by Miss Sandy Osenroth and Miss Terry DeBruin.

Tony Hoffman and Jerry Vande de Voort point out the finer details of the hutch and cabinet which they refinished.

ner when you can get him to listen. So you'll find it easy to pass the test in today's hand: the proper play of a single suit.

West opens the jack of spades, and you hopefully put up dummy's queen. That's not the test. East covers with the king of spades, and you refuse the first trick. East continues spades, and you refuse the second trick, also. But you have to win the third spade. Obviously, you will have to lead a diamond to dummy's ace in the hope of developing four club tricks. Now you're ready for the test. How do you play the clubs?

"That's easy," somebody in the back row sings out. "Lead the queen of clubs from dummy, in order to keep the lead in dummy for another finesse."

The tune is good, but the words are wrong. If you lead the queen of clubs from dummy, East plays low. You play the deuce from your own hand, and then lead another club from dummy to try a second finesse. East plays low again, and you must win with the ten in your own hand. Now, you cannot return to dummy for another club finesse, and you get only three club tricks.

Second Attempt
Perhaps you're ready to try again. Lead the queen of clubs from dummy and drop the ten from your own hand. Then you lead the nine of clubs for the next club trick.

This time East covers the Partner opens with one club, and the next player bids one spade. You hold: S-J 10 9 8 2, H-J 4, D-Q 10 8 2, C-5 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. If you double, either the next player or your partner will probably run to some other contract — and the only contract you are happy with is one spade played by an opponent.

FTC Seeks Better Break For Light Bulb Buyers

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has finally decided to end some of the confusion at the light bulb counter.

After considering the situation for five years, it has proposed bulbs rated to last up to 1,500 trade regulation rules designed hours. "Medium Life" for bulbs to give consumers more adequate ratings between 1,500 and 2,000 hours, and "Long Life" for bulbs with ratings of more than 2,000 hours.

At present, few bulbs or their manufacturers have been em-sleeve wrappers disclose any phasing brightness at the existing but wattage and voltage sense of longevity. Thus, while Yet the hours of life and today's bulbs are about 15 per approximate number of lumens, cent brighter than in Thomas a term used to measure the Edison's day, they don't last as degree of light output, are long equally important.

In 1908, the 100-watt bulb — "The failure to disclose lumen the most popular size — was, and life ratings," says the FTC, made to last 800 hours. Two "deprives consumers of many years later, that was extended terial facts which, if known to to 1,000 hours. But in 1933, two years after Edison died, the hours were reduced to 750, where they still remain.

Consumer Lacks Choice

Brightness and length of life are directly related to each other. The brighter (and hotter) the filament burns, the faster the bulb will wear out. By adjusting the filament to burn lower, the length of life can be increased. For example, bulb life can be doubled by reducing the brightness 6 to 13 per cent, depending on bulb size.

But for many years, consumers have not had a choice. The only long-life bulbs have been marketed by independent suppliers in small quantities and at very high prices. Yet some experts insist that manufacturing costs are not significantly different for long or short-life bulbs.

Nearly two years ago, several companies began to market some bulbs with 1,200 and 1,500 hours of rated life. They did so largely to counter criticism from Congressman Jack Brooks (D-Texas) who had issued a report in 1960 entitled: "The Short Life of the Electric Light Bulb."

Firms Not Interested

But the firms did little to promote the longer-life products, and priced them about one-third higher than regular bulbs. A recent survey of a drug store, supermarket and variety store in Washington failed to locate any of the longer-life bulbs.

Thus, the companies are still in the driver's seat. The FTC has scheduled a public hearing for September 30 in Washington stems from lack of demand.

Guy Is Liar; Writer Told to Forget Him

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I fell in love with a very attractive man whom I met at work. He has a charming personality, makes a wonderful appearance and gave me something to live for after my husband passed away, 17 months ago.

He told me his wife was in a mental hospital and comes home on weekends. He said he wanted to marry me and promised to get a divorce when his wife was well enough to sign the papers. He never mentioned children, but it turns out that he has two. It also turns out that his wife is not a patient in the mental hospital. She is a dietitian there.

I learned the facts by accident and almost passed out.

Landers

When I told him what I knew he broke down and cried — said he had lied because he was afraid of losing me. I told him we were through and asked him not to call me again.

This morning he telephoned to say he had filed for divorce. I want to believe him but it's difficult after what I've been through. Where can I get the facts. Would this be a matter of record? Please advise me. — Weeping Willow

Dear W. W.: You have the most important fact. The guy is a liar. Give him the deep six.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your ignorance is showing again. Recently you said a 14-year-old cocker spaniel is equivalent to a 98-year-old human. Obviously you arrived at this conclusion by multiplying the dog's age by seven. This is an antiquated method long since discarded by canine authorities.

The correct method is as follows. Figure 25 years for the first two years of the dog's life. Add seven to the third year. Then add two years for each remaining year. So you see, Ann, that cocker spaniel if he was a person would have been 54 years old, not 98. And that's pretty young too — I gotta cha.

Dear I.: I don't know who invented the "new" system but I checked with three veterinarians and they said it's so new they've never heard of it. All three agreed that a 14-year-old cocker spaniel would be considered a very senior citizen in anybody's kennel — and much closer to a 98-year-old human than one 54.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am in love with a girl who is engaged to marry someone else. The announcement appeared in the paper Sunday and it nearly killed me.

I went with B. for two years. There were times when I didn't treat her exactly right but unfortunately I was uptight about several things and drank a little too much. I accidentally hit her (she really ran into my fist during an argument) and we broke up over that misunderstanding.

B. has known this guy only four months. I am sure she is marrying him on the rebound. He's nothing to look at and square besides. I called her three times last week and she refused to meet me to talk things over. (She's afraid if she sees me she'll weaken.) Please, be my fairy godmother and tell me what I can do. — Panhandle

Dear Panhandle: You can stop making a pest of yourself. I have no magic wand for a guy who mistreats a girl then bawls his head off when he loses out to someone decent.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Copyright 1969) from your Food Freezer!

PICK FRESH PEACHES

Why not spruce up a meal next winter with some of those ripe, juicy peaches you're enjoying right now? That's one of the many advantages of owning a home food freezer — you can buy seasonal foods when they're at their peak of quality and most economical — enjoy them months later with all their fresh flavor, color and nutritional value. Now's a peach of a time to buy!

REDDY TIPS ON FREEZING PEACHES

Selection: Freeze soft ripe fruit with firm, fine grained flesh. The free stone types with red color about pit cavity are most attractive.

Preparation: For a better product, peel peaches without a boiling water dip. Remove pits, cut into slices.

Sugar Pack: Mix ½ cup sugar with each quart (1½ pounds) prepared peaches. Dissolve ¼ teaspoon (500 milligrams) ascorbic acid in ¼ cup cold water and sprinkle over each quart of peaches.

Syrup Pack: Cover peaches with syrup that has been prepared with 3 cups of sugar to 4 cups water with ½ tea spoon (1,000 milligrams) ascorbic acid per quart. Leave headspace in containers. Seal and freeze.

Women's Rights Battle Report

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Got a letter this week from a non-violent (The Mystique was a mistake) homemaker who is becoming somewhat alarmed by the stir made by women who are seeking male equality.

A New York housewife is charging discrimination because she is not allowed to umpire a ballgame. A Philadelphia woman wants to be a mounted policeman. A female sports columnist is battling her way to the stadium press box. A female pilot is suing an airline for refusing her a job.

"Am I jealous?" the letter-writer asks, "because I couldn't fit one of my legs into an entire jockey suit or because a space suit would make me look fat? Why does the whole race for equality bug me? — A Florida fan."

Well, not having seen Miss Fan's legs or her equipment for a space suit, I'll never really know for sure, but I would imagine, like some of us, she has a gnawing fear that as women we might be paying a high price for so-called equality.

There is certainly nothing wrong with a woman being ambitious or being able to do any job she wants in this world (and at a fair wage) but some militant women scare me half to death. They end up with a personality somewhere between a lady wrestler with her head caught between two ropes and a roller-derby casualty.

To begin with, the old saw in the long pants, the necktie, the boots, the no-make-up, the severe hair and the cigarette hanging out of a leering mouth and say to myself, "Sure, a smokers hack and a figure like George Raft. Big deal!"

Frankly, I don't like the way the war between the sexes is going. We have won the Battle of the YMCA, but we're opening our own car doors. We scored a victory at the stock exchange, but we're stuck with handling the family budget. We triumphed by getting our own cars, but we drive ourselves to the hospital to have our own babies delivered. We've conquered and held the pants suit, but our dance programs are empty.

There used to be a "quaint" expression that referred to women. It was called "lady." It denoted a lot of things, not the least of them being femininity, good taste and respect.

I heard it for the first time in ages the other night. A man yelled across the street, "Who was the lady I saw you with last night," and the other yelled back, "That was no

"Israel in Vogue," a fashion show to be sponsored Sept. 10 by the Appleton Chapter of Hadassah, brought Mrs. Dan Napack, Mrs. William Friede and Mrs. Bernard Ziven together to look over some of the art prints and beaded work that will be on display at the 1:30 p.m. dessert.

Fashions From Israel to be Modeled at Hadassah Show

"Israel in Vogue" will be the theme of a fashion show to be presented to the public by the Appleton chapter of Hadassah at a 1:30 p.m. dessert Sept. 10 in the fellowship hall of the new Moses Montefiore Synagogue.

The collection entitled "A Hadassah Fashion-In" is the work of students of the fashion department of Hadassah's Alice Seligberg Vocational High School for Girls in Jerusalem. A blend of Occidental and Oriental design, the ensembles combine rich hues with intricate embroidery and intriguing patterns. Highlight of the show are embroidered evening dresses and cocktail ensembles.

The Hadassah fashion show is touring the United States to help raise funds for Hadassah's network of vocational-educational programs in Israel.

In addition to its fashion training, the Seligberg School offers courses in homemaking, secretarial skills, dental and laboratory assistants' work, arts and crafts. Other Hadassah projects include the Brandel vocational workshops of fine mechanics, precision instruments and printing, a vocational guidance bureau and a rural vocational center. Hadassah also conducts extensive medical, research, social service, youth rehabilitation and land reclamation programs in Israel.

Mrs. Dan Napack and Mrs. Harold Abramson will serve as co-chairmen of the show. Assisting will be Mrs. Joseph Schiff and Mrs. William Friede, models; Mrs. Bernard Samuels, Neenah, tickets; Mrs. Dennis Bahcall, dessert; Mrs. Donald Garelick, decorations, and Mrs. Arnold Cohodas, music.

Mrs. Milton Liess will act as fashion show commentator. Modeling will be Mrs. E. A.

Sweet Adelines To Have Picnic

KIMBERLY — Prospective members of the Appleton chapter of the Sweet Adelines Chorus will have a picnic at 6:30 p.m. this evening at Sunset Park. The Green Bay chorus and other guests have been invited.

Fall rehearsals will begin at 8 p.m., Sept. 9 at the Northern State Bank, Appleton, lower level. Guests are welcome at any time.

Mrs. Raymond Kunstman, Mrs. May Fird and Mrs. Le Roy London were in charge of arrangements for the picnic.

Emergency Rooms Become Clinics

One acute problem our hospitals face is what to do about emergency rooms.

Over the past eight years, the Norfolk (Va.) General Hospital reports an increase of 100 per cent in emergency room visits. A study, however, showed fewer than half the cases were classifiable as emergencies. For the rest, the emergency room had served merely as a "convenience clinic."

Most likely this trend will continue, says Drs. Judson Booker and John Vansant, and hospitals must find a way to cope.

Few Problems Anticipated Grocery Stores Tackle Tax

Wisconsin's new 4 per cent sales tax went into effect Monday, and although some grocery stores aren't including the additional tax in the grocery bill because they don't yet have lists of taxable items, most stores are encountering few problems in calculating the extra charges.

Once the checkout girls learn just what the taxable products are, the cash register and simple arithmetic do the rest.

A few mistakes will be made the first week or so, one store manager estimated, but declared that by the end of the week any problems should be resolved.

When a customer comes through the grocery line with a taxable item, the clerk has

Still at Large Guard Abducted by 2 Escaping Honor Farm

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Two trustees abducted a guard at knifepoint and fled the Oneida Honor Farm Monday night. They forced the guard to go with them to Milwaukee, their hometown, where they released him unharmed.

The escapees were still at large this morning.

The guard, Lawrence Winchell, 45, 1016 Silver St., De Pere, was released on Milwaukee's northwest side.

Authorities were hunting John Stepniwski, 28, and Robert John Reisz, 24. They had been trustees at the Wisconsin State Reformatory Farm in Oneida only a few months.

Stepniwski was serving a 12-year sentence for armed robbery. Reisz was serving a four-year term for threatening bodily harm. The honor farm is located about 15 miles west of Green Bay.

Winchell said he drove to a wayside south of Fond du Lac with Stepniwski holding a large butcher knife at the nape of his neck. Stepniwski took over the wheel at this point and Reisz/much of a head start.

Water Shortage Remains Don't Touch That Sprinkler!

Sunday night's rain may have ended Appleton's 24-day drought, but it wasn't enough to convince water department officials to lift the ban on lawn and garden sprinkling.

Although a definite decision hadn't been made yet this morning, a department spokesman said it looked unlikely that the ban would be lifted.

"We'll know a little better tomorrow," said Gary Stegman, water plant superintendent. He explained that today, being the first working day after a holiday, is "a bad day to decide," with manufactur-

Welfare Cutbacks In Outagamie Not Causing Problems

Municipalities May Get Referrals

State welfare cutbacks became effective Monday, but Outagamie County Director of Social Services Alfred Eggert said late this morning that his department "hasn't had any problem yet."

The county has one family under the Aid to Families With Dependent Children of Unemployed Parents (AFDC-U) program and 19 families with children under an Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC) program for stepchildren.

It also has 10 children 18 years of age or older who were assisted under an AFDC program for foster children (AFDC-F) because they are attending high school.

Aid was halted in all three categories because of the new state budget recently signed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

No Contact

According to Eggert, no one has contacted the county welfare department about having their aid cut off through the program — "and there's not much we can do except refer

Demolition Completed Construction Phase of Gimbels Store About Ready to be Started

The Gimbels Department Store project will move shortly from the demolition to the construction phase, with pile-driving on the College Avenue site expected to begin in about a week.

The $7 million project is currently in the "bulk excavation" stage, according to James L. Peters, engineer supervising the project for Oscar J. Boldt Construction Co., the general contractor.

Within the past few days the last of the remaining foundations of buildings formerly located on the site were removed, completing demolition of the structures.

No Timetable

Peters said as yet there is still no timetable for more advanced stages of the project. The plans for the department store have been sent to Madison for approval by Department of

12 Injured in County Crashes Over Weekend

Several Hospitalized After Hitting Cars Parked Along Road

Twelve persons were injured in five Outagamie County highway accidents from late Saturday night through early today. Several persons were hospitalized.

An Algoma couple was hurt about 1:25 a.m. Sunday when the car they were in struck a parked auto on County Trunk EE, five miles northeast of Freedom.

Richard W. Lohrey, 28, Algoma, driver of the car, suffered head cuts and bumps, and was taken by ambulance to Kaukauna Community Hospital. His wife was taken to St. Vincent Hospital, Green Bay, by private auto, for treatment of head and face cuts.

County police said they were eastbound on EE when their car struck a parked car owned by Wayne M. Maes, 17, route 2, West De Pere. He said he left the car along the roadway, with the lights out, when it ran out of gas. Damage totaled about $1,900.

Burglars Hit 4 Businesses Grand Chute Firms Report Break-ins, Missing Items, Cash

Burglars hit four Town of Grand Chute business places over the holiday weekend.

Missing from McCann's Texaco Service, at U.S. 10 and U.S. 41, were three snowmobile suits, valued at $60 each; three snowmobile helmets, valued at $35 each; 15 packages of cigarettes, and $46 in change from a cigarette vending machine which was pried open.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators said cupboards in the service area of the garage, and the stock room also were ransacked, but it was not immediately determined if anything was missing. Entry into the station was gained by prying open a south door.

Inventories were to be taken today to determine if anything was missing from Landwehr Inc., and Appleton Asphalt Co., both located on the same property along Quarry Road.

At Landwehr's, burglars pried open a door then knocked a 17 by 16-inch hole in a cement block wall safe. Once inside the safe, burglars scattered records and other contents. Nothing appeared to have been taken, investigators explained.

A garage door lock was smashed to gain entry into Appleton Asphalt Co. Investigators said small tools may have been taken.

About $40 was believed taken from Stephenson Electric, Inc., 600 Highway Drive, where entry was gained by breaking an east window.

Water Shortage Remains Don't Touch That Sprinkler!

Sunday night's rain may have ended Appleton's 24-day drought, but it wasn't enough to convince water department officials to lift the ban on lawn and garden sprinkling.

Although a definite decision hadn't been made yet this morning, a department spokesman said it looked unlikely that the ban would be lifted.

"We'll know a little better tomorrow," said Gary Stegman, water plant superintendent. He explained that today, being the first working day after a holiday, is "a bad day to decide," with manufactur-

Emergency Welfare Okayed in Winnebago

OSHKOSH — Emergency welfare payments totaling $2,771 for 12 families cut off by the new state budget were authorized today by the Winnebago County Board of Social Services. The committee's action came as a stop-gap measure to make up for payments cut off last week to families receiving aid for the September payments week to families with dependent children of the unemployed. (AFDC-U).

The recipients were getting money under the AFDC-U program until last week when it was eliminated in the new state budget. A second part of the committee's action was to ask local units of governments to pick up the cost of the program, starting in October.

Also extended by one month, today's action was a work-training program involving their residents. The committee decided to send out the checks under the funds cut off, immediately to help the families who were depending solely on the welfare money for support like the AFDC-U.

The county will make September payments for 32 persons between 18 and 20 years old who are receiving the AFDC payments. The state budget eliminates this program, but not until Oct. 1.

Beagle Worth $2,000 Missing After Show

TORONTO (AP) — A $2,000 beagle bound from Illinois was stolen at the Canadian National Exhibition a few hours after finishing second in its class at the dog show.

Owner Sheldon Pankow of New Lenox, Ill., said the dog, winner of 26 best-of-class ribbons in U.S. dog shows, might have been taken out of its locked crate by children during the weekend.

He is offering a $150 reward for return of the dog. He said that if children took it because they want a dog he would give them another beagle.

Fire of Undetermined Origin destroyed a 40 by 108-foot barn Sunday night on the Arthur W. Van Handel farm, on County Trunk N. two miles north of Little Chute. Also lost were 100 tons of hay, 30 tons of straw, a milk house and related equipment, and 15 head of young stock. The Van Handels were home when fire broke out about 9 p.m. Firemen from the Towns of Freedom and Vandenberg were at the scene until Monday morning. (Photo by Tom Verhagen)

Projects Near Completion 41 Holiday Traffic Smooth

OSHKOSH — Vehicular traffic on U.S. 41 both north and south from Green Bay to Fond du Lac over the Labor Day weekend was relatively light and well under control despite a major construction project which has caused several tieups on the superhighway this year.

And, looking into the future, the traffic flow on U.S. should improve considerably as two projects, the Butte des Morts Bridge and the Cecil Street overpass in Neenah are expected to be completed later this fall.

And, even looking further into the crystal ball, motorists will be relieved to know that within the next 10 years, all direct access to U.S. 41 will be closed, making the highway that much more safer to vehicular travel.

Traffic Light

"Traffic on the highway was light, the lightest in eight years," Lt. Edward Misch, traffic safety director, Winnebago County sheriff's department, said.

Misch pointed out local units worked in cooperation with the state patrol "and seven units patrolled areas on the outer fringes of the superhighway from State 110 to State 44 south."

The traffic director noted the seven units were dispatched during the expected peak periods of traffic on Monday afternoon and evening and encountered no problems in vehicle jam ups.

And, Misch said, there were no major accidents in this area over the weekend. Lt. William Harvey, executive officer, District 3, Wisconsin State Patrol, Fond du Lac, said, "It was a smooth weekend." "There were a few mishaps," he noted, "but personal injury and property damage was minor."

Misch said the traffic on Monday was heavier at mid-afternoon than early evening. He attributed the light traffic movement to the starting of school. "People apparently started for home on Sunday rather than Monday in order to get their children prepared for the opening of the fall terms," he theorized.

Avoided U.S. 41

Harvey said, "Many motorists avoided traveling on the superhighway because they were cognizant of the construction projects."

Another factor for the smooth traffic flow was attributed to the motorists' awareness of the possible dangers in traveling on the highways during the holidays, Harvey added.

Traffic conditions are constantly under review by local and state authorities, the executive officer said. He pointed to the monthly meetings held jointly by representatives of the state patrol, county highway departments, and sheriff's offices when all accidents are reviewed.

"At these quarterly sessions, we attempt to review the problems and decide in which areas they can be solved," Harvey said.

He explained that spot maps detail all accidents and pinpoint "the possible development of trends." These joint sessions are usually held at the sheriff's office or highway department in the counties involved.

Although there is no timetable set direct access to the superhighway will be closed in 10 years, Kenneth Nelson, chief construction engineer, Division of Highways, State Department of Transportation, Green Bay, said.

"We're planning to close all access to U.S. 41 from Green Bay to Fond du Lac and the state is planning to eliminate direct access from Green Bay to Milwaukee," Nelson added.

Nelson said preliminary plans for the expensive project are already completed. "We've actually begun work," He mentioned the overhead construction at Cecil Street at Neenah and similar work at State 125 (College Avenue), Appleton. "We recently eliminated an access to U.S. 41 just south of State 44," the engineer said.

He predicted the closing off all direct access to the superhighway to be completed within 10 years.

Carley Will Keep Word

Communications Gap From Menasha Hit by Developer

MENASHA — The private developer for Menasha's downtown redevelopment project says the firm will "honor" its commitments to follow the advice of the city's bonding consultant regarding the effect of two clauses in the redevelopment resolution.

But he assailed the city today for telling him nothing about the letter from Michael Borge, of Borge, Leitner & Pitt, Chicago, sent Aug. 23 and notifying the city that clauses disclaiming federal aid and not making the city a part of the redevelopment project would not affect the city's or Menasha Redevelopment Authority's (MRA) ability to issue bonds.

No Word

"The city has told me nothing about this, and I am surprised that they released any comment without first contracting their developer," said David Carley, president of Public Facilities Associates, Inc., of Madison, the project developer.

Robert Osheim, city redevelopment director, said today he had received a letter from Harry Kivell, the city's financial consultant at Milwaukee's First National Bank, that also said there would be no financial effect from the city's redevelopment resolution.

"But he didn't really address himself to the effect it would have in private financing, which is what is really concerning Public Facilities Associates," Osheim said.

Borge's letter was sent to City Atty. Richard Steffens, who Thursday wrote an accompanying letter to the City Council.

No Effect

Steffens said the clauses disclaiming federal aid "could not possibly effect the City's ability to bond and certainly could not affect the MRA's ability since the MRA is a separate corporation, having all the municipal powers a city has and more, and its bonds would be of a general revenue nature, its collateral would be the plan itself as well as leases to be signed by tenants on a long-term basis."

Police Hunt For Clues In Assault

MENASHA — Police continued searching for leads in the early Saturday morning beating of a Menasha police officer as the reward for information in the case climbed to $275 Monday.

James LaCount, reportedly beaten and robbed of $15 by three men at about 2:20 a.m. Saturday at the Earl Litho Printing Co. plant, will be released from Theda Clark Hospital later today or tomorrow.

In the meantime, seven area agencies have contributed $275 to a reward for anyone with information leading to the arrest of the assailants.

A Menasha police investigator said Monday morning that fingerprints have been taken from a flashlight found at the scene of the assault, but no identification of them has been made.

He said that several employees of the Earl Litho Printing Co., where members of Local 88 of the Lithographers and Photoengravers International Union have been on strike for about eight weeks, will be questioned in connection with the incident.

He said police will also talk with LaCount again when he leaves the hospital to double check all the information he has given them and try to uncover additional information.

went out of control and overturned several times along County Trunk A, nine miles north of Appleton, about 3:25 a.m. Sunday.

He told police he fell asleep at the wheel. His car was demolished. Police took him to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Three teen-agers were hurt in an accident about 11:45 p.m. Sunday at French Road and County Trunk EE, four miles southwest of Seymour.

Cars involved were driven by Randall S. Lamers, 17, 114 W. McKinley St., Little Chute, and Gordon R. Coonen, 16, 1100 Depot St., Little Chute.

Neck Injuries

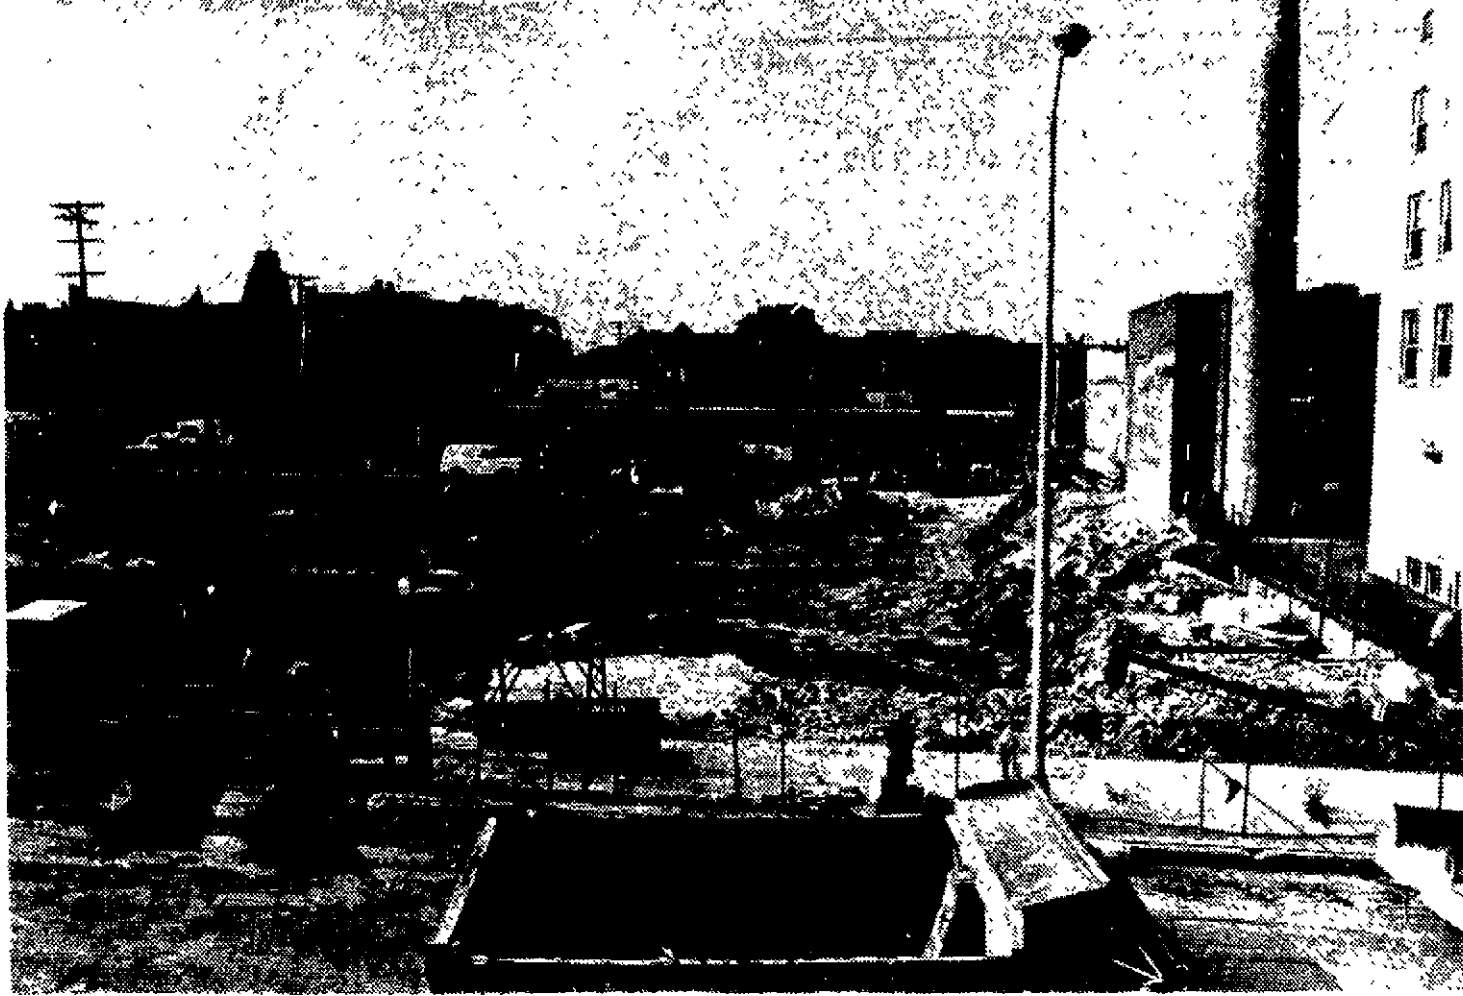

Two passengers in the Lamers' car complained of neck injuries. They were Debra Van-DeHoy, 15, and Mark Vandenberg, 17, both of Little Chute. Linda Andrews, 15, Little Chute, a passenger in the Coonen auto, also complained of a neck injury.

Police said both cars were southbound on French Road. Lamers had stopped for a stop sign when his car was struck from behind by the Coonen auto. Damage totaled about $350.

Shirley Hill, route 1, Oneida, suffered right arm injuries plus bumps and bruises when her car struck a parked auto about 10:30 p.m. Saturday on County Trunk E, between Oneida and Freedom.

The woman was taken to St. Mary Hospital, Green Bay, by ambulance. Fred Hill, 30, also route 1, Oneida, a passenger in her car, suffered head cuts, but was not hospitalized.

Police said the Oneida woman was eastbound on E when her car struck a parked car owned by Louise A. Nieft, 818 Adams St., Little Chute.

Bulk Excavation at the site of Gimbel Brother's Inc. planned College Avenue department store was completed this week. The project will move into initial phases of construction next week, when pile driving is expected to begin. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Outagamie Not Hit by Welfare Cutbacks Yet

that the county will save some money, at least during September, under the AFDC stepchild program, Eggert said.

The majority of the cases which were under the program were not on the welfare rolls before July, 1966, when the law was passed.

A reduction in county costs (which are 27 1/2 per cent of the allocations) "could happen" if these cases do not seek other assistance.

General Relief

Some cases probably will have to seek assistance elsewhere, Eggert said.

If any of the AFDC-F children, attending school need further assistance, Eggert hopes to be able to refer them to the county for general relief.

What is causing worry in the Outagamie office is reduced state assistance for all AFDC programs, which will be effective Oct. 1.

"This will hurt the person who can't go out and work," Eggert noted.

Outagamie County currently has 250 cases with 850 persons on AFDC. Every case will be involved in a reduction of assistance, the director said.

Can't Work

"The legislators put pressure on the employable but they declined to take action on a petition this morning which they felt could affect joint safety building discussions between Appleton and the county.

The petition, opposing three parcels east of the courthouse for county parking, was tabled by the county board executive committee until the joint building is resolved.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, said the joint safety building or jail facilities program first must be resolved.

The joint facility was revived last month when county officials agreed to talk to the city about the city coming into the jail complex the county approved to build between the courthouse and annex.

City officials are deep in discussion of a proposal and should come up with a plan this week so it can be presented for consideration next week.

The petition, signed by about 25 residents including several couples, contends the parking lot should not be located between W. Sixth and W. Seventh streets just west of the Prospect Arms because it creates a traffic hazard. The entrance would be on W. Prospect Ave., which the signers said is too busy a road.

They also contended the lot, proposed to include 83 stalls, would lower their property values.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, said he was washing his hands of the matter. Esler, who had pushed for the county to buy the three lots for $65,000 from an Appleton real estate firm, noted after the executive committee meeting the county is missing an opportunity for a reasonable price.

He said residents will squawk no matter where the lot is located.

Supv. Patrick Heenan, Appleton, indicated an area north of W. Seventh Street could be used for the lot and is favored by the city.

Esler said the county would not have to worry about zone changes. They come automatically when a city or county purchases land, he added.

Corporation Counsel to be Sought to Succeed Ponath

77-Year-Old Attorney Must Retire From County Post at End of Year

Outagamie County supervisors agreed this morning to begin the search for a new corporation counsel.

Although it was known a replacement would be needed since A. W. Ponath, the present counsel, will be retired under county retirement age policy, supervisors had taken no specific action on a successor. He retires Dec. 31, 1969.

The move came this morning in the county board executive committee which voted unanimously to advertise for candidates.

Action Needed

Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, pushed for the action.

"Here it is Sept. 2," he said. "When are we going to get this position filled?"

Schreiter, also a member of the courts, justice and enforcement committee, noted that if the assistant district attorney, Thomas Cane, is the one hired, it would be unfair to make the district attorney find a replacement late in the year.

Schreiter was critical of the county for delaying action on the matter. The county board voted earlier this year to adhere to its rule that all employees reaching the age of 65 must retire.

Ponath, who is 77, and several others will be affected.

Cane's name came up at a recent courts committee meeting when Dist. Atty. James Long said his assistant was being considered for the post.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, said this morning that he had watched Cane in court and had asked him if he would be interested in the corporation counsel post. He said that he was, Esler added.

It was revealed that Kaukauna City Atty. Donald Green and Appleton City Atty. David Geenen also had indicated interest in the post. None of the three has submitted official applications but all are expected to after the county's official advertisement.

Esler said that he had contacted about 10 attorneys in the Fox Cities about the post, but all had said they plan to stay with their law practices. They said the county probably would have to pay "in the neighborhood of $14,000 to $16,000" to get a man for the post, Esler added.

Among the county requirements are the attorney have five years' experience.

The executive committee's motion will be referred to the personnel committee for consideration and handling the details of advertising. The executive committee included in its motion that advertising should be in the state bar association publication, The Post-Crescent and one Milwaukee paper.

Money for Assistant

Schreiter also criticized the inclusion of $5,000 in the 1969 budget for an assistant for Ponath. The money was never used and the assistant never hired, he said, asking what would be done with it.

Supv. Patrick Heenan, Appleton, suggested the new man should be hired before the end of the year so Ponath could assist him in the carryover process. "A little knowledge of the basics of the problems certainly should be helpful," he said.

Esler said he did not think it was necessary for the overlap. It was noted Ponath took over the position some years ago without the transition period.

BY GEORGE HAWRYLSHYN
Associated Press Writer
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazilians went about life normally today, apparently unperturbed by the substitution of a military junta for their ailing military president.

The army remained on the alert, but there were no disturbances following the change of command Sunday night. Financial institutions, closed Monday on government order, were reopening today.

The ministers of the army, navy and air force formed a junta that set aside the constitution and took over the powers of President Arthur da Costa e Silva after he suffered a stroke. They bypassed Vice President Pedro Aleixo a civilian who should have become acting president under the constitution. But nobody had expected that the military would let him take over.

Strongman Expected
Although the junta said the takeover was temporary, until Costa e Silva recovered, there was considerable doubt he would make a comeback before his term expires in 1971. There were predictions a strongman would emerge from the junta.

The ruling triumvirate is composed of Army Gen. Aurelio Lyra Tavares, 63; Adm. Augusto Rademaker, 64, and Air Marshal Marcio de Souza e Mello, 63.

Aleixo had been working on constitutional reform measure designed to restore some semblance of representative government in South America's largest country. Costa e Silva, who dismissed Congress last December and ruled by decree, was to have made the new law public this week. It was expected that the junta would delay the law indefinitely.

President "Comfortable"
Medical bulletins continued to report improvements in the condition of Costa e Silva, who is 67. Dr. Abraham Akerman, a leading neurologist, announced Monday that the president was "recovering quickly" and was resting comfortably at the presidential palace in Rio.

A medical bulletin issued last Sunday described the president's illness as "a circulatory crisis with a neurological manifestation." One source interpreted this to mean a brain hemorrhage, spasm or thrombosis.

funds and resources to do that job with."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew may be pressed for more specifics on that point at a closed door session of the conference later today.

"Strategy for Peace"
Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, the Democratic national chairman, also is likely to hear some complaints today. Harris was to meet with Democratic governors, who have complained that their national headquarters pays little attention to them.

Nixon also promised "an effective strategy for peace," limiting U.S. commitments overseas to those which can prudently be kept, saying this "makes possible an effective strategy for meeting our domestic needs."

He cited his own domestic proposals as evidence of "this new domestic strategy," stressing the welfare plan.

"Some object to these proposals, understandably, as seeming to favor one region over another, or because they give the rich states less than the poorer states," Nixon said. "I considered these arguments and rejected them because we are one country."

"We must meet our problems where the problems are," he said, adding:

"Unless we act to meet the problems of human need in the places where they exist, the troubles of rural America today will be the troubles of urban America tomorrow."

U.S. Troops Sent to Help S. Vietnamese

No American casualties were reported.

The enemy command launched its fall campaign Aug. 12 with attacks on 150 allied bases and South Vietnamese towns, most of them in an arc 55 miles northwest to 80 miles northeast of Saigon. But enemy attacks dropped off sharply within a week.

U.S. officers say they believe the enemy is trying to reposition its troops for another series of attacks.

Hanoi radio reported that the Viet Cong has again pledged to continue fighting until all American troops are withdrawn from South Vietnam and the South Vietnamese government is overthrown.

Nguyen Huu Tho, chairman of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm, made the pledge to North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh in a message sent to mark North Vietnam's independence day.

North Vietnam's premier in turn promised that the North Vietnamese would increase their fighting aid to the Viet Cong "until the American aggressors are driven from all our land, the traitor administration is overthrown, and the puppet army is collapsed and crushed into the mud of utter defeat."

Drownings Take Lives Of 7 Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A Pennsylvania girl was rescued, but an Illinois youth drowned Monday, bringing Wisconsin drowning toll to seven for the Labor Day weekend.

Vincent Galati, 22, of Melrose Park, Ill., and Bridget Perrara, 18, of Butler, Pa., beached their boat on a sandbar in North Lake to go for a swim Waukesha County authorities said.

The boat drifted away and they swam after it. Another boater, Robert Schwartzburg, of Hartland, heard their cries for help, and rescued Miss Ferrera, but said Galati went under before he could get to him.

The search of the St. Croix River near Hudson was to resume today for David Barnham, 16, of Morristown, N.J., who disappeared in 50 feet of water Saturday after a boat collision.

Douglas Rindfleisch, 9, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rindfleisch of rural Spencer, drowned Sunday while swimming with four brothers and three cousins in Hay Creek near the Rock Dam in Clark County.

Peter Hartzheim, 29, of Madison, was killed Sunday when his car went out of control on a town road off U.S. 141 about eight miles south of Green Bay.

A nonholiday victim was Mrs. Mayme Fischer, 71, of West Allis, who died Sunday of injuries suffered Wednesday when one of two cars in an intersection collision veered to the side and struck her.

Victims of a car-truck collision in Oconto County Saturday were Mrs. Louise Shepherd, 25; Mrs. Marie Shepherd, 30, Ben Harter, 18, and Gary Lorbeski, 20, all of Wabeno.

Other weekend victims included Lorraine Kocken, 47, De Pere; Randall Wolff, 20, Milwaukee; Larry Immerfall, 25, rural Burnett; Dodge County, and Daniel Smith, 27, Green Bay.

Ramsey at first refused to testify before the joint board but later submitted statements in which he said he misunderstood a message from the Melbourne giving her course. He also said he didn't wake McLemore because at first he thought it wasn't necessary and then he got too busy.

City workers count $1.3 million in small change from meters annually, sorting out wedding rings, religious charms, buttons, bus tokens, pieces of dollar bills and occasionally a $5 gold piece.

The foreign coins go to a bank to be exchanged for United States money. The city rarely loses money on the deal.

Some phony objects work in meters, some don't, officials say, predicting happily that before long the rings torn from beer cans will be obsolete as slugs. Cooperating with parking meter makers, can manufacturers have changed the design.

Clarence Sjoerdsma, 41, rural Randolph, drowned Saturday while swimming in Spring Lake, officials said, adding that he may have suffered a heart attack.

Airlines Ask Ticket Prices Be Increased by 8 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharply rising operating costs, have filed proposed rate hikes that would all be in effect by Oct. 1.

And they will automatically go into effect unless the CAB says no. Oral arguments before the board begin Thursday.

Congressmen Opposed
Among opponents of the fare increases are 20 California-Nevada congressmen, frequent users of long-distance flights, who already are feeling the effects of a 4 per cent interim increase allowed by the board last February.

CAB Chairman John H. Crocker Jr. has placed the proposals in three categories, as illustrated by:

—The plan of Continental Airlines to keep short-haul fares—flights under 400 miles—at present levels, while raising the tariff on longer flights. The increase would range from $2 for trips from 400 to 499 miles to $9 for flights of more than 1,900 miles.

Formula for Fares
—The formula of United Air Lines for a fixed charge of $11, plus 5.7 cents a mile, for each passenger ticket.

—The formula of Eastern Airlines—a fixed charge of $8.60 a ticket, plus line-haul fees tapering downward over four distance zones.

Trans World Airlines and Braniff Airways support Eastern's proposal, which TWA President F. C. Wiser said offered "the best balance of equipment per carrier that we have seen."

The line-haul charge, tacked onto the basic ticket charge of $8.60, would be 6.7 cents a mile for trip distances up to 400 miles, 5.8 cents a mile for trips from 401 to 1,100 miles, 5.2 cents a miles for distances of 1,101 to 1,800 miles, and 5 cents a mile for trips longer than 1,800 miles.

The basic class would be jet coach, with first class fares priced 25 per cent higher.

Like other applicants for higher fares, Eastern has supported its proposal with data as to the high cost of labor settlements, the accelerating pace of non-labor cost increases, and other problems.

Racial Strife Flares in Night In Hartford
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Fires blazed and police used tear gas to drive away thieves today after a night of racial violence which left a policeman shot and a mile and a half of stores looted or burned.

More than 90 persons had been arrested and a dozen injured, including three policemen and two firemen.

A police official said shortly before dawn that the area, Hartford's predominantly Negro North End, was "quieting down," although fires were still burning and some arrests were still being made.

The most seriously injured was Anthony Fazzinelli, 46, a uniformed police dog handler who underwent surgery at Hartford Hospital for a bullet wound.

Police said Fazzinelli was shot in the right thigh, apparently by a sniper, in the heart of the disturbance area.

Mission Possible Even With Two Stars Gone

Leonard (Mr. Spock) Nimoy Replacement
For Martin Landau, Guest Leading Ladies

BY BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At first blush, the Mission seemed indeed impossible: for a television series to carry on without two of its most important stars. But the show is going on with no apparent loss of vitality.

That is the word from Bruce Geller, the man who conceived in advance the specifics of how and oversees "Mission: Impossible." The imaginative series, which has captured millions of viewers, several Emmies and critical acclaim, is not the loyalty of the two of its original cast members. Martin Landau and Barbara Bain.

Both have cut out after three seasons, Miss Bain delivering her kiss-off in explicit terms at the Emmy awards in June. The reasons for the departures of the married pair are clouded in controversy, and her decision is being contested by lawyers for the producing company, Paramount.

Inventive Man "I can't say anything about it; I'm the guy who's caught in the middle," said the youthful, athletic-looking Geller in his studio office.

But he is every inventive—he also oversees "Mannix"—and is preparing three pilot films for CBS and has a three-picture contract with Cinema Center Films. Geller solved Landau's departure by enlisting Leonard Nimoy, formerly the pointed-eared Mr. Spock of "Star Trek."

"At this point we have no running lady in 'Mission,'" said Geller. "We have used guest stars like Sally Ann Howes, Lee Meriweather, and Alexandra Hay—with her clothes on (Miss Hay has done nude scenes in films). Some of them may repeat, but so far we're planning no replacement for Barbara. Naturally we'd like her back. But that's in the hands of the lawyers."

"Fortunately 'Mission' is the kind of show that doesn't rely on any single star. You can't write this show for a character; the story itself is the star, and that story is tightly controlled."

Scripts Tightly Written "The dictates of the plot are total. We have never cut a single scene from any segment. We may have shortened it, yes, but we can never cut it entirely. That's how tight the scripts are written."

So stringent are the script demands of "Mission: Impossible" that Geller has composed a seven-page instruction sheet for writers. It begins:

"Mission: Impossible" must be written backwards, because the HOW is the key to the series. The fascinating problem is of no use to us without knowing Geller, the man who conceived in advance the specifics of how and oversees "Mission: Impossible." It will be solved.

"It is the detailed unfolding of this solution to the problem that makes a 'Mission' plot. As a result problems unsolved in the outline can very rarely be fixed in the writing of the teleplay."

Such detailed plotting has contributed to the series success, said Geller—"We tell a lot more story than most shows." He also considers photographic techniques a major factor.

"We brought a film first to TV controversy, and we made great use of the eye. What we were first criticized for now brings us praise: the fact that the show moves so fast you must pay attention all the time. With 'Mission' you can't go to the bathroom or to the kitchen for a beer. The audience has learned that they have to watch the show or they'll miss something."

Those Pesky People Should Go to the Moon

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some day the moon may be colonized—if some way can be found to provide it with an atmosphere.

This shouldn't take too long. All that is needed is a simple system for exporting to our lunar satellite a third of the hot air that emanates from mankind each day.

Once the moon is made habitable, who do you think should go there? Naturally, you have to consider that if they went to the moon you might never get to see them again in your lifetime.

With that fact in mind, here are a few offhand nominations: People who send you Christmas cards in August.

Pet Pamperers All pet owners who stick their squirming cats, dogs, parakeets and goldfish in your face and demand, "Did you ever see anything cuter?"

Any fellow under 30 seen carrying a peacock feather in public. If he's over 30, it might just be temporary insanity.

All people who think any country can solve its problems by dropping hydrogen bombs on some other country.

Any secretary whose fingernails are longer than her false eyelashes.

Office employees who pick their teeth after lunch with an unbent paper clip.

People who read your newspaper over your shoulder on the bus because they are too cheap to buy a copy of their own.

People on the bus who, when you have forgotten to buy a newspaper, turn and frown at you for trying to read their copy over their shoulder.

Anybody who has more pride in his ancestors than faith and hopes for the performance of his own progeny.

Butchers with overweight thumbs. (But can you recall ever meeting a butcher with an underweight thumb?)

Demure ladies who, when you start to kiss them, turn their cheek at the last moment—leaving you with a mouthful of face powder.

Ladies who, on rainy days, go heedlessly down busy sidewalks collecting the eyeballs of passers-by on the prongs of their umbrellas

Gossips who insist they can't tell you a secret—then tell it to everyone else

All money-hungry authors who write about sex as if it were a four-letter word.

All waiters who bring you sandwiches spread with mayonnaise after you've told them you're on a diet and don't want any sandwiches spread with mayonnaise.

Anybody who wants you to witness his last will and testament but won't let you read the document so you can find out whether your name is among those the tightwad is leaving his dough to.

All people who feel good on Mondays.

Anybody who, when you tell him your ailments in detail, asks, "Have you considered the possibility that they're all simply psychosomatic?"

All long-haired smart alecks who try to tell you that if God isn't dead He is unaccountably missing.

No one would be left here—no not even you or me.

Green Bay's Forrest Gregg Comes Out of Retirement

Leo Carroll Traded to Washington

GREEN BAY — Confirming rumors that have swirled about him since the opening of training camp, Forrest Gregg came out of retirement today to rejoin the Packers' offensive line.

Gregg, an 8-time all-pro selection who has been a member of the coaching staff since last January, was persuaded to return to active duty by Coach Phil Bengtson.

Bengtson and his aides have felt ever since completing their study of the 1968 film games, that the 35-year old SMU alumnus still is the premier offensive linemen in the National Football League.

Gregg, who will continue as an assistant coach, is expected to make his '69 debut in Saturday night's pre-season game against the Steelers in Lambeau field.

The Packers sent veteran defensive end Leo Carroll to the Washington Redskins Monday for an undisclosed draft choice.

The trade reduced the Packers' roster to 47, including 37 veterans. Earlier Monday, Coach Phil Bengtson announced that two players had suffered injuries in Saturday night's pre-season victory over the Cleveland Browns.

Bengtson said tight end Ron Jones severely sprained his ankle and running back Perry Williams, a fourth round draft choice from Purdue, suffered a dislocated thumb and a broken bone in his hand. Both rookies are expected to be out indefinitely.

Contact Work Next for UW Grid Squad

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin's Badgers put on their football pads today to begin contact work.

"Now we'll work against live formations," Coach John Coatta said after four days of workouts ended with three drills Monday.

"We were working against machines and air."

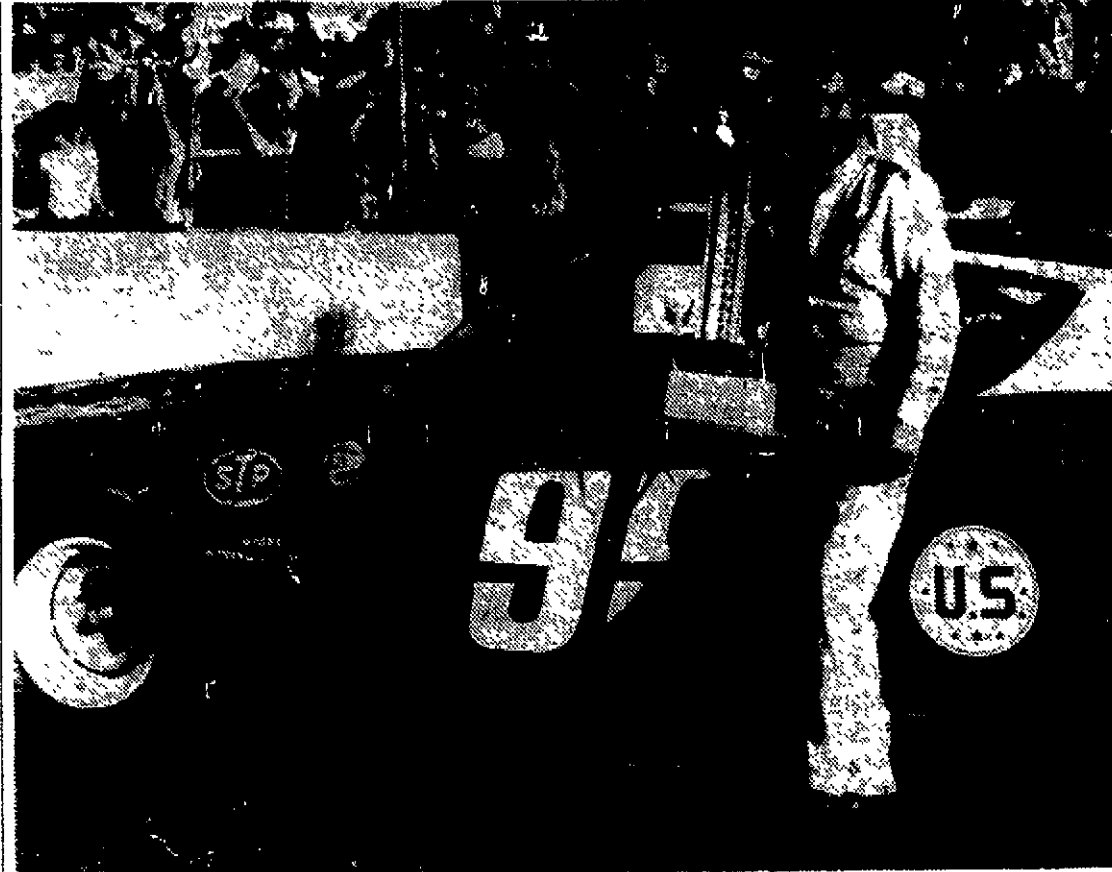

Today's schedule included a "33" drill, a three-on-three hamburger drill with live blocking and tackling.

"We might scrimmage a little Wednesday," Coatta said. "Saturday we'll have a good one." He said he will put the squad through light Wednesday scrimmages and full head-knocking sessions on Saturdays in preparation for the Badgers season opener Sept. 20 when they host Oklahoma.

"We've got all our offensive sets and plays in and a good bit of our passing game," Coatta said. "Our defensive alignments are all in too."

Foxes Win 2, Set Records

Eddy Gains No. 18, Has 1.81 ERA

BY JOHN PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Slightly more than two hours after he had been named the Appleton Foxes' "most valuable player for 1969," pitcher Don Eddy wrapped up an imposing demonstration of why the selection was a sound one.

With his shutout — and possibly even his victory — being jeopardized by Wisconsin Rapids in the ninth inning, Eddy threw a double play ball to Frank Bonforte to ring down the curtain on a history-making, 3-0 triumph.

The victory — Eddy's 18th for the 1969 Midwest League champion Foxes — established a new all-time, 1-season club record. Previously, Fred Rath had been the Foxes' winningest pitcher — with 17, in 1966.

Eddy, a talented, 22-year-old Iowan, also set another club record and just missed a third. With his shutout, the 5-11, 170-pound southpaw lowered his earned run average to 1.81 — breaking the club record of 1.88 (for 100 or more innings) set by Pat Gillick, of the 1960 title team.

Eddy's 18-3 mark barely missed the club record for wins, set by Tim Sommer, who posted a .387 pace, while Eddy's is .357.

Only 15 Innings

Eddy's success this year was even more notable because this marked his first complete season of baseball since 1966. In the last two years, he had hurled a total of only 15 innings because of military service.

Run-scoring doubles by Jim Redmon and George Hunter and an RBI single by Max Correa smoothed the path for Eddy Sunday at Goodland Field. They led an 11-hit attack on starter and loser Mark Simon (of Sheboygan) and reliever Dick Peery, as the Foxes notched their seventh straight win.

Eddy scattered six hits, struck out five and walked one, and, at one stage, retired 14 straight batters.

The Foxes manufactured a pair of second-inning runs after two were out. Correa, who rapped three hits during the game, singled to center. He sprinted home on Jim Redmon's double to left center.

In the third, Glenn Redmon opened with a single, but Stu Singleton flied out, and Hugh Yancy hit into a force-out. Eddy beat out an infield hit, and Correa spanked a run-producing single to center.

The Twins posed their only threat in the fifth.

Cubs, Reds Try Again Tonight After Rain Postpones Key Clash

A September rainstorm and a June plane ride sound like a couple of wildly unrelated things—but they sure teamed up to put a dent in Cincinnati's hopes in the dizzy National League West title chase.

The rainstorm washed out the Reds' scheduled game with the Chicago Cubs after a 90-minute wait Monday night.

That postponement, coupled with San Francisco's 12-2 rout of Montreal earlier in the day, enabled the Giants to reclaim first place, just .002 percentage points ahead of the Reds.

And, that mid-June flight has the Reds in danger of doing a little more slipping tonight.

Last June 15, Chicago was leading Cincinnati 5-4 after seven innings of the second game of a doubleheader, when the game was suspended to permit the Reds to catch a plane to San Francisco, where they were scheduled to play the next afternoon.

That game will be resumed from the point of interruption—with the Cubs holding that 5-4 lead tonight, before the regularly scheduled match with the NL's East Division leaders.

Davis Extends Streak

Meanwhile, Willie Davis extended his hitting streak to 29 games in helping Los Angeles to a 10-6 success over the New York Mets that kept the Dodgers just .003 percentage points back of the Giants. The loss dropped the Mets 4½ games back of the Cubs in the NL East.

Pittsburgh clipped Atlanta 7-1 to drop the sagging Braves three games off the pace in the West, while St. Louis whipped Houston 6-2 and San Diego topped Philadelphia 5-2 in other games.

Fight World Mourns Death Of Marciano in Air Crash

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — Rocky Marciano, the Brockton blockbuster, was mourned today by the people of this city who idolized him.

Marciano, who left coal shoveling and ditch digging in his hometown and went on to win the world heavyweight boxing championship, died Sunday night in a plane crash in the Iowa farmyard.

Marciano captured the title in 1952 with a knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott and eventually retired undefeated in 1956.

He was killed when a light plane carrying him to his birthplace celebration crashed in Newton, Iowa. His body was returned here Monday, the day he would have been 46 years old.

His professional career started in Holyoke with a three-round knockout over Lee Epper-son and ended in New York City with a 15-round loss to Cassius Clay told a reporter Marciano was "the onliest one that would have given me some trouble."

Known as a fighter who didn't know the art of boxing, he'd take as many punches as necessary to land one.

"I got lucky tonight because I only got nailed a couple of times," he once told a reporter after a fight in 1952. "But in the world heavyweight boxing championship, I have headaches for a week or two weeks. Some times I actually hear humming, and I know that can't be good for me."

Then he added: "But I used to have a sore back all the time from shoveling coke at the Brockton Back Gas Works. For this I get paid better."

"Inside the ring he was a lion, outside a lamb," was the way Walcott described Marciano.

Former champ Sonny Liston said Marciano "was one of the greatest champions there ever was," and deposed champion Cassius Clay told a reporter Marciano was "the onliest one that would have given me some trouble."

Although respected by those who fought him, Marciano's free-swinging, plodding style found little praise with the boxing experts.

"However," Marciano once remarked after his retirement, "20 years from now fight fans will look at my record and know I fought everybody around and never lost a fight. I might even end up a living legend."

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at St. Coleman's Church Thursday, and another Mass will be celebrated Friday at St. Pius Church in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where Marciano made his home for the past several years.

Burial will be in Queen of Heaven Cemetery, Fort Lauderdale.

Survivors include his widow, Barbara; a daughter, Mary Ann, 16, and an infant son, Rocky Kevin, 17 months old.

Overcoming Deficit Very Encouraging

Offensive Blocking, Defensive Play Praised by Bengtson After Victory

B YLEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

"It's the same old Green Bay team as far as I'm concerned." This somewhat rueful proclamation had come from Browns' defensive end Jack Gregory in the wake of the Packers' resounding 27-17 victory in the willing heat of Cleveland's Municipal Stadium over the weekend.

Although he appreciated the implied compliment, an ever-conservative Phil Bengtson was not inclined to rhapsodize, not at least, at this early date.

"It was only one game," the Packers' head coach and general manager cautiously observed as he watched his athletes take their weekly run around the South Oneida Street practice field Monday in preparation for hosting the Pittsburgh Steelers at Lambeau Field Saturday night.

Better Performance

He admitted, however, that there had been perceptible progress. "Our performance was better than the week before," — (31-13 loss to the Cowboys in Dallas,) he said, "when everybody was discouraged and wondering what was going to happen."

It had not, he added, come entirely as a surprise.

"We've had the feeling they were coming along every week and I think that will continue ... the encouraging thing about it was coming from a 14-0 deficit to win."

"And we didn't waste too much time doing it," he noted with satisfaction. Scoring just before the half in the time we had was a big thing and a lot of credit for that should go to Bart Starr for his poise in engineering that drive.

This last was only one of several developments that had rewarded his confidence in the green and gold.

Pass Protection

One of them was the pass protection, vastly improved over the Dallas venture in which Packer quarterbacks were felled eight times.

"The whole thing was better coordinated," said Bengtson reflecting upon what he had seen on film a few hours earlier.

"We were sharper on our pass patterns, we did a better job on pass protection and the quarterbacks were throwing more on rhythm."

"It was just what you expect after several weeks of preparation ... the offensive line made some very good holes for the running backs — the blocking was good overall."

He conceded, in this connection, that sophomore Bill Lueck didn't do badly at all.

Lueck, a first round draft choice a year ago went the distance at left guard after making his first pro start.

Bob Hyland, who had started the three previous games, had pulled groin muscle, Bengtson said. "He centered only on punts, but he could have played if necessary."

No Surprise

Bart played real well too, of course, but that was no surprise to us. And we are fortunate to have good running backs who also can catch the ball."

The play of those backs might pose something of a problem for him, it was suggested.

"I never thought there was anything wrong with having fresh ones in there," he quipped. "I never thought you could have too many football players ... if that's a problem, I welcome it."

In this connection, Phil noted, "I don't think who the starters are is that important. I think it's important that we will find we will be interchanging more than we have a kind of a rare thing for before ... the idea of having Kelly."

two fresh ones for all the time.

"It could be an advantage for us. Some people don't think so, but I do."

Bengtson, alternated five runners over the route, a come-backing Travis Williams leading the way with 65 yards in 11 attempts. Rookie Dave Hampton added 37 in 5, Elijah Pitts 36 in 6, Jim Grabowski 32 in 8 and Donny Anderson 18 in 6.

He didn't have the opportunity to use rookie Perry Williams, who fractured a thumb in the first quarter.

Old pro Henry Jordan looked good along with Willie Davis and Lionel Aldridge against the potent Cleveland running game, the Packer head master compe- cided in restricting the Browns to a meager 79 yards rushing.

"Leroy Kelly broke through one time, when we were in a particular maneuver, to set up a TD, but other than that we didn't break away, which is He didn't break away, which is He didn't break away, which is

Trickle Wins 'Kaukauna 150'

BY TOM VERHAGEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KAUKAUNA — Dick Trickle, of Wisconsin Rapids, at the wheel of a '69 Ford Torino, survived a spectacular accident on the 51st lap, three restarts, and completed his mandatory pit stop in the 74th lap, to win the "Kaukauna 150 Championship" Monday afternoon at the KK Sports Arena.

On the 51st lap, a 1965 Oldsmobile driven by Jim Anderson, of Holmen, came out of turn No. 4 and apparently picked up a piece of a brazing rod, causing his tire to blow. His car then careened toward the inside guard rail and started the first of his five mid-air flips, for his driver, as Anderson's car came flipping through the air, his shoes, and they remained in the spot where he was hit.

Anderson received side and shoulder injuries, but did not require hospitalization.

Trickle, last year's "commander" at the KK Sports Arena, turned in another sterling performance, as he not only won the 75-mile feature event, but also recorded the fastest time of the afternoon with a :22:60 clocking, and came up first in the 8-car, 6-lap trophy dash, grabbing a sizeable portion of the $6,200 purse.

The second restart of the feature came about on the 66th lap, when Jim Lundquist of Milwaukee blew his engine in the fourth turn, causing five cars to spin. Stu Nitzke of Borth went skidding along the wall, as did Appleton's J. J. Smith. Both drivers were uninjured and were able to continue in the event.

The third restart came on lap 91, when Gene Marmor of River Grove, Ill., blew his engine in the No. 3 turn after a see-saw battle with Trickle for the lead.

Somers Second

Following Trickle to the checkered flag was Stevens Point's Rich Somers in a '64 Mercury Richmond, with "Smiling" Clyde Schumacher of Kimberly third in a '69 Ford Torino and Appleton's J. J. Smith fourth in a '67 Ford.

Roger Regeth of Appleton, in a '67 Plymouth, was second to Trickle in the Trophy Dash, with Somers third.

Marmor emerged the winner in the first heat, as Menasha's Milo VanOudenhoven in a '69 Plymouth Roadrunner was dethroned after five consecutive first heat victories, and ended up in the No. 3 position.

Regeth was victorious in the second heat with Somers second and Mike Brown third.

Donna Jones of Appleton, the unofficial "queen for a day" at the Labor Day event, presented trophies to the winners in the feature, and also drew the card for the winner of the '69 Dodge Super Bee. The winner of the new auto, courtesy of R&R Dodge and Matthews Tire Co., both of Appleton, was Irene Cismoski of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The top 10 places in the "Kaukauna 150":

1. Dick Trickle, Wisconsin Rapids, 1969 Ford Torino.

2. Rich Somers, Stevens Point, 1964 Mercury Cyclone.

3. Clyde Schumacher, Kimberly, 1969 Ford Torino.

4. J. J. Smith, Appleton, 1967 Ford.

5. Larry Baumel, Sparta, 1969 Ford Torino.

6. Martin Walbeck, Rib Lake, 1969 Chevrolet.

7. Bob Kleinschmidt, Oshkosh, 1967 Ford LTD.

8. Stu Nitzke, Borth, 1967 Ford.

9. Mike Brown, Wisconsin Dells, 1969 Dodge.

10. Dale Koehler, Milwaukee, 1967 Chevrolet.

Wins Triple Crown of Stock Racing

Yarbrough Cops 'Southern'

By BLOYS BRITT
DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP)—The success which eluded Lee Roy Yarbrough for most of his nine years on NASCAR's blue ribbon Grand National stock car racing circuit finally has come to the 50-year-old driver.

He won his sixth major speedway race of 1969 Monday, bolting past David Pearson on the final lap of the prestigious Southern 500 before a limp crowd of 65,000.

Yarbrough now has won stock car racing's so-called triple crown, the Daytona 500, the 1968 Charlotte World 600, and the Southern 500 -- becoming the first driver to do it in one season.

In winning the rain-shortened Southern 500 by less than a car length, the Ford driver earned $21,850 to bring his season's total to a record $184,915.

He led seven times for 83 1/2 laps.

4 Big Victories

Three times last year he had come breathtakingly close to winning big events, finishing close second to Cale Yarborough, who went on to $136,000 season and four big victories.

But this time he and 35-year-old Pearson, also in a Ford, staged a furious battle over the rainsoaked Darlington International Raceway for almost 100 miles, heading for a 7 p.m. curfew announced by race officials after rain delayed the action for 4 1/2 hours.

"That made it a trophy — particularly those last 25 or 30 laps," said Yarborough. "Victory would go to the guy who could get out front and stay there. We knew the chips were down."

The winning average speed for the 316 miles or 230 laps was 105.612 m.p.h. Besides rain, caution flags because of wrecks held down the speed.

Pearson picked up $12,250 to raise his season's winnings to $150,470.

Wins at Du Quoin

Al Unser drove the double-overhead cam Ford to victory in the 100-mile feature at Du Quoin, Ill., in another Labor Day race.

Unser, of Albuquerque, N.M., beat Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., by less than 1010 feet.

A.J. Foyt of Houston was third in another Ford; Billy Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., fourth, and Bobby Unser, Al's older brother, fifth in conventional Offenhausers.

At Lime Rock, Conn., Sam Posey of Sharon, Conn., won the 107.1-mile English Leather Grand Prix at Lime Rock Park.

Cains Quarter-Finals

Ashe Challenges Pros for U.S. Crown

By WILL GRIMSLEY
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—It's Arthur Ashe against the pros now in the $137,000 U.S. Open Tennis Championship.

"We weren't ready last year — open tennis was so new to us," said Rod Laver, the tournament's favorite now gunning for the last title in a second grand slam.

"We hadn't played on grass. We weren't accustomed to best-of-5 sets. It's different this year."

"It will be hard to break through the contract pros. Ashe is the only man who has the kind of game to do it and he has to be at his best in every match the rest of the way."

Laver and Ashe were among the four players to advance to the men's quarter-finals Monday. They were joined by two of Laver's fellow troupers in the National Tennis League—Roy Emerson and Ken Rosewall.

Laver's next opponent is Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and third-seeded Tony Roche of Australia against 41-year-old Pancho Gonzales, his conqueror a year ago.

Ashe goes against 34-year-old Ken Rosewall, who after a slow start is picking up steam in this championship.

The other quarter-final spots were on the line today in matches sending second-seeded John Newcombe of Australia against Emerson, who at 33 is two years older and who grew up with him in Australia's humid Queensland area around Brisbane.

Ashe looked his sharpest in ousting Manuel Santana of Spain Monday 7-5, 6-1, 6-8, 6-4 but he went immediately to the dressing room and began soaking his ailing right elbow in ice.

He served 24 aces.

In top form

Laver had to play his best to beat Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 6-4, 4-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Rosewall, firing quickly, edged Ilie Nastase, the young Romanian, 6-1, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3 while Emerson crushed dark-horse Roy Barth of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-3, 6-0, 6-3.

The women's division entered the semifinals with Margaret Court appearing more imposing with every round. The stal-

Monday for the $20,000 top prize in the Greater Hartford Open Tournament.

They had tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes at 268, 16 under par on the 6,568-yard, par-71 Wethersfield Country Club course, and had matched pars on the first three playoff holes before Lunn rolled in a 22-foot putt for the winner.

Can't Be Rushed

"This game can't be rushed. You've got to capitalize on your good shots and not let the bad ones get you down," Lunn said.

And that's exactly the formula he used in whipping the thin, tiring Hill.

Hill, three strokes behind with three holes to play, closed birdie-birdie-birdie for a 66 that tied him with Lunn, who had a 67.

Dave Stockton took third with a 66 for 269. Bert Greene, with a 65, and Gay Brewer, 68, tied at 271. Howie Johnson had a 70 for 272 and was followed by Jack Nicklaus alone at 273 after a 68.

Defending champion Billy Casper was well back at 278.

"Somehow I had a feeling Dave was going to make it," Lunn said after Hill had canned a 23-foot birdie putt that tied it on the 82nd hole.

It was the first victory of the year for the 24-year-old Lunn, the third of his six-year pro career and pushed his money winnings for the year to $62,974.

Karilivacz, Ex-Pro Back, Dead at 38

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — Carl Karilivacz, 38, a defensive back with the Detroit Lions, New York Giants and Los Angeles Rams from 1953 to 1964, died of a heart attack in his sleep at his home Saturday night.

Karilivacz played at Syracuse before going into the National Football League. After his retirement he was a sales representative for several printing firms in Glen Cove.

He is survived by his widow and four daughters.

A Requiem Mass will be held Wednesday at St. Hyacinth's Church here Wednesday, with burial in the Holy Rood Cemetery in Westbury, N.Y.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Behnke

Can you imagine one boy scoring more touchdowns himself than entire teams, with all their players put together, are able to score in one season . . . There once was a boy who did it . . . Dick Todd, at Crowell (Texas) High School in 1934, scored the unbelievable total of 49 touchdowns himself in one season — and to realize how amazing that is, consider the fact that many whole teams go through seasons without being able to score that many touchdowns . . . After Todd scored his fantastic total of touchdowns in his senior year in high school, he went on to play at Texas A & M and later with the Washington Redskins . . . A sports historian says that in all the years of football, nobody has ever approached the season Dick Todd had at Crowell High School.

Can you name the pitcher who struck out Casey in baseball's famous poem "Casey at the Bat"? . . . Oddly enough, the pitcher is not named in the entire poem.

Of all the football teams in America, which one do you think has played the most games since the start of football 100 years ago? . . . Answer is NOT Princeton or Rutgers who were the first two teams to play football . . . It's Penn which has played a total of 907 football games going into this season.

I bet you didn't know . . . a new shipment of corduroy sport coats is in, new, popular wide wale weave.

Pounds 34th Homer 'Can Play Loose, But Aren't Overconfident,' Says Orioles' Powell

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles are waltzing towards a half of the American League pennant with a youngish veteran team that is loose but not cocky.

"We aren't that old, age-wise, but we have a number of players who have gone through a pennant battle before," Boog Powell said following Monday's game. The Orioles crushed the Chicago White Sox, 8-0, before a crowd of 18,102.

"With a lead like we have," Powell said, "we can play loose. But we have been through this thing before so we aren't overconfident."

Pull Together

Immediately following the game, the Orioles, as usual, held one of their "kangaroo court" sessions with fines being assessed for mental or make-believe honors. Manager Earl Weaver was fined $1 for resting a player who had been on a hitting streak. A player was fined for not advancing from second to third on a fly ball. His defense was that he had planned significant threat in the ninth, as Bob Wissler hit a 1-out single, and Bob Dempsey drove a single to left. Bonfante grounded to Jim Redmon, who started a short-to-second-to-first double play.

FOX TALES — Eddy, besides winning the MVP award, also shared the "outstanding pitcher" citation with Bart Johnson. Stu Singleton was voted "most popular," while Marquess won the sportsmanship award and relievers Rich Moloney, Jim Linke and Roger Benko were made "honorary firemen" by the Appleton Fire Department. The Foxes have received a $1,000 check from the ML in recognition of their championship season. Because the Foxes won both titles in the split season, they didn't have to share the annually-awarded stipend.

Bart Johnson Hurls 1-Hitter

Howell tried to pick Dempsey off of first but threw the ball low to George Hunter covering the bag and it rolled into right field enabling Foell to score from third.

Johnson struck out Jose Stenett before intentionally walking Jerry Schlegelmilch to again load the bases. The 6-5 right-hander then got Frank Bonfante to ground out to the shortstop to end the only Rapids' threat of the game.

Johnson faced only 28 men in the remaining eight innings. The Twins got a man on base in the second frame when Vessell got his hit, in the sixth when Dempsey walked and stole second, in the seventh when pinch-hitter Larry Housley was safe on an error, and in the eighth when Wissler walked.

Losing pitcher Steve Barber held the Foxes to two hits and no runs until the sixth inning.

Then, with the help of two hits, two errors and a wild pitch, they scored three times.

Jim Redmon started the inning by reaching first when his ground ball to the third baseman went through the fielder's legs. Mark Marquess singled to center and Redmon went to third. A wild pitch scored Redmon and George Hunter walked to put men on first and second with no outs.

Both Howell and Glenn Redmon popped up to the catcher before Stu Singleton hit a high pop-up to the second baseman who dropped the ball enabling Marquess to score from second and advancing Hunter to third. Hugh Yancy's bunt single scored Hunter before Johnson grounded out to end the inning.

Four hits and two more errors scored three runs in the seventh for Appleton. With one out, Jim Redmon doubled to left field. Marquess popped out and George Hunter walked. Greg Howell then singled to center to score Redmon.

Twins Widen Gap Perranoski Equals Record With 26th Save of Campaign

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

It was Labor Day for everyone else and just another day of labor for Ron Perranoski. Mel Stottlemyre won his 18th game and Bobby Murcer hit a pair of homers in the opener as the Yankees took the Pilots. Roy White drove in three runs for New York as Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter.

Mike Hegan, an ex-Yankee, tied the nightcap with a ninth-inning single and then hammered a three-run homer in the 13th inning, helping the Pilots to the split.

Epstein Stars Mike Epstein tagged four straight hits including a three-run homer, giving Washington its first game victory over California as Joe Coleman won his 10th.

The Angels salvaged the split with Sandy Alomar's two-run triple the key hit in a sixth-inning comeback. Ken Mullen hit a pair of two-run homers for Washington.

Mike Brown tripped home one run, then came in on Jim Price's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning to give Detroit the victory in the opener, extending the Tigers' winning streak to seven games.

But Luis Alcaraz, just called up from the Royals' Omaha farm club, delivered a two-out, run scoring single in the bottom of the ninth in the nightcap to end the streak.

Allowed One Hit Perranoski allowed just one hit in the final 2-1-3 innings to nail down the victory for the Twins after Cleveland had rallied from an early 7-1 deficit.

The veteran right-hander is just three short of the Minnesota club record for appearances and seems certain to top his personal high of 72 set in 1964 when he was with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Perranoski's 26 saves tied the AL record set by Baltimore's Stu Miller in 1963 and matched by Jack Aker with Kansas City in 1966. When Miller and Aker did it, a reliever had to face the tying run to qualify for a save. Now, he merely has to finish the game to get one.

The Twins clawed Sam McDowell for six runs before a man was out in the first inning. Bob Allison ripped a bases-loaded triple and Rich Renick had a two-run homer to key the rally.

But the Indians bounced back, kayoing Dean Chance and continuing to rally against Jim Kaat and Al Worthington before Perranoski came on to save the victory.

Raps Three Hits Boog Powell slammed three hits including his 34th home run and made Jim Palmer's 14th victory easy as the Orioles blitzed the White Sox in a game played at Milwaukee.

Rico Petrocelli walloped a grand slam home run in the first inning, wiping out a 2-0 Oakland lead and pacing Boston over the A's.

The homer was Petrocelli's 34th of the season and tagged the A's with their third straight

Bart Johnson Hurls 1-Hitter

Howell tried to pick Dempsey off of first but threw the ball low to George Hunter covering the bag and it rolled into right field enabling Foell to score from third.

Johnson struck out Jose Stenett before intentionally walking Jerry Schlegelmilch to again load the bases. The 6-5 right-hander then got Frank Bonfante to ground out to the shortstop to end the only Rapids' threat of the game.

Johnson faced only 28 men in the remaining eight innings. The Twins got a man on base in the second frame when Vessell got his hit, in the sixth when Dempsey walked and stole second, in the seventh when pinch-hitter Larry Housley was safe on an error, and in the eighth when Wissler walked.

Losing pitcher Steve Barber held the Foxes to two hits and no runs until the sixth inning.

Then, with the help of two hits, two errors and a wild pitch, they scored three times.

Jim Redmon started the inning by reaching first when his ground ball to the third baseman went through the fielder's legs. Mark Marquess singled to center and Redmon went to third. A wild pitch scored Redmon and George Hunter walked to put men on first and second with no outs.

Both Howell and Glenn Redmon popped up to the catcher before Stu Singleton hit a high pop-up to the second baseman who dropped the ball enabling Marquess to score from second and advancing Hunter to third. Hugh Yancy's bunt single scored Hunter before Johnson grounded out to end the inning.

Four hits and two more errors scored three runs in the seventh for Appleton. With one out, Jim Redmon doubled to left field. Marquess popped out and George Hunter walked. Greg Howell then singled to center to score Redmon.

Twins Widen Gap Perranoski Equals Record With 26th Save of Campaign

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

It was Labor Day for everyone else and just another day of labor for Ron Perranoski. Mel Stottlemyre won his 18th game and Bobby Murcer hit a pair of homers in the opener as the Yankees took the Pilots. Roy White drove in three runs for New York as Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter.

Mike Hegan, an ex-Yankee, tied the nightcap with a ninth-inning single and then hammered a three-run homer in the 13th inning, helping the Pilots to the split.

Epstein Stars Mike Epstein tagged four straight hits including a three-run homer, giving Washington its first game victory over California as Joe Coleman won his 10th.

The Angels salvaged the split with Sandy Alomar's two-run triple the key hit in a sixth-inning comeback. Ken Mullen hit a pair of two-run homers for Washington.

Mike Brown tripped home one run, then came in on Jim Price's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning to give Detroit the victory in the opener, extending the Tigers' winning streak to seven games.

But Luis Alcaraz, just called up from the Royals' Omaha farm club, delivered a two-out, run scoring single in the bottom of the ninth in the nightcap to end the streak.

Tight Money to Stay Despite Dire Warnings

Nixon's Policymakers Told Continued Controls Will Bring Recession in 1970

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Behind the facade of forced optimism about the state of the economy, President Nixon's economic policymakers have decided to stick indefinitely to the tight money attack against inflation despite the grim foreboding that it almost surely will produce a 1970 recession — possibly of severe dimensions.

Desperate appeals from President Nixon's economic advisors to loosen the screws on the money supply are having no effect whatever on the Quadriad, the four-man economic policymaking body of the government. However, there is growing realization inside the administration that this policy will stop the inflation far later than had been hoped and at a cost to the economy far greater than expected. That is, lack of financing will slow down the economy so much that business activity will slump and unemployment will soar.

Evans

Something Must Be Done

Moreover, there is a dread feeling that the recession, when it comes, will be most difficult to reverse and quite likely will extend into the 1970 election campaign. Nor is there any agreement about how best to combat a recession.

What adds a touch of unreality to this is the fact that neither President Nixon nor his closest personal aides, basking at San Clemente in the euphoria that has persisted since the moon landing, has confronted these grim prospects. The highly political decision that a recession in 1970 is preferable to galloping inflation — and might forestall a disastrous 1972 recession — has been reached essentially by non-politicians inside the administration.

Considering Mr. Nixon's repeated strictures to friends that the 1960 Eisenhower recession cost him the presidency and that economic downturns must be avoided by any future Republican president, there is at least the possibility that he will reverse the Quadriad. Certainly, he could base such action on the views of unofficial advisors outside the government.

Friedman in Warning

Chief among them has been Dr. Milton Friedman, a conservative economist at the University of Chicago with intimate ties to this administration. For the past month, Friedman has been waging a one-man campaign — through his Newsweek column, in incessant contacts with high administration officials, in tense telephone calls to Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board. His plea: tight money already has had its impact on the economy though the indicators don't quite show it; the federal reserve must ease up or risk disaster.

Other friends of the Nixon administration, economists and businessmen alike, are urging action to put some money in the banks. As a substitute for fighting inflation, some want Mr. Nixon to return partially to the Kennedy-Johnson jawbone technique and urge greater self-restraint on business and particularly labor in seeking higher prices and wages.

The campaign has failed. Martin's three colleagues on the Quadriad — Treasury Secretary David Kennedy, Budget Director Robert Mayo, and chief economic advisor Paul McCracken — support him without reservation. So does Dr. Arthur Burns, the President's counselor and economic tutor.

Indeed, the guarded remarks of last spring by high treasury officials that the federal reserve itself — reaching heights that might be overreacting in its tight money policy have disappeared. Having then underestimated the intensity of the inflation, the treasury now fully applauds Martin's prescriptions. Unlike Friedman, the Quadriad believes the inflation has not yet been quelled.

That leaves only continuation of the present policy and the nearly inevitable descent into recession next year. Some pessimists in the administration foresee serious unemployment beginning next spring (at around 4 per cent) and continuing to move upward after that point.

These dark prophecies will come as a nightmarish jolt to Republican politicians dreaming of vast conquests against a demoralized Democratic Party in 1970. If white working men find themselves laid off for the first time in a decade after just tentative trend to the Republican Party may well be aborted. It is just such political considerations that might convince Mr. Nixon to order his economic team to temper their tight-lipped determination.

Accordingly, administration first time in a decade after just tentative trend to the Republican Party may well be aborted. It is just such political considerations that might convince Mr. Nixon to order his economic team to temper their tight-lipped determination.

Holiday Road Crashes Take 28 Lives in State

'When Will They Ever Learn?'

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Rifles crack and the drums roll for the last time today for four New Hampshire National Guardsmen killed in Vietnam last week when their truck struck a land mine.

But for the fifth victim buried Monday from St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church there were no rifles, no muffled drums. Just a trio of folk singers asking, "Where have all the soldiers gone?" Answering, "Gone to graveyards every one. When will they ever learn?"

The mass at St. Catherine's was for Army Spec. 5 Richard E. Genest, 24, of Manchester. His pretty widow, Brenda, 20, said, "I am against war. Dick was against it. And the funeral was a protest against it."

Today's services, in three Manchester churches, were for Spec. 4 Roger E. Robischaud, 24; S.Sgt. Richard P. Raymond, 27; Spec. 4 Guy A. Blanchette, 22, and Spec. 4 Gaetan J. Beaudoin, 20.

They were buried here in Mount Calvary Cemetery, where Genest was buried. The five guardsmen were members of the 3rd Battalion, 197th Artillery. They had been neighbors here and were scheduled to return with their unit from Vietnam this Thursday.

Mrs. Genest barred military ceremonies at her husband's funeral, just as she refused on Saturday to accept the flag which draped his coffin when it arrived at Grenier Field.

Labor Day Toll High Across U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four double fatality accidents and one which claimed four lives helped boost Wisconsin's Labor Day weekend traffic toll to 28 by today. That is eight more than last year and six less than the record bloodletting of 1965.

The deaths, in addition to one early today, brought Wisconsin's 1969 count to 728, compared with 777 on this date in record 1968.

Gary Franke, 19, of rural Mayville, was pronounced dead on arrival at a Fond du Lac hospital early today after his auto struck the back of a parked semi trailer truck on State 49, west of Brownsville in Dodge County.

Traffic accidents across the nation claimed 583 lives during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

Although late reports were expected to raise the toll higher, it appeared the final figure would fall short of the Labor Day record of 688, set during last year's observance.

David Hopper, 18, of New Lisbon, died Monday when his car ran off a curve north of the city, rolled and burned, officials said.

Robert Bourget, 19, of rural Cadott, died Monday of injuries suffered Sunday night in Chippewa County. Authorities said Bourget was alone in a car which left County Trunk S and overturned.

Two persons died early Monday in a Vernon County accident. Killed when a car struck a bridge on State 82 west of Hillsboro were Raymond Campbell, 18, of La Farge and Raymond Sorensen, 18, of Waukesha.

Two other persons, a young mother and her daughter, were killed Monday when the car in which they were riding went out of control and left a Dane County road near Belleville. The victims were Mrs. Vicki L. Campbell, 20, and her daughter, Dedra 3, of Madison.

Darryl Hensler, 18, of Watertown, died early Monday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile in Watertown.

John Robinson, 18, of Whitefish Bay, suffered fatal injuries early Monday when the car he was driving left a Washburn County road west of Minong and struck a tree.

Two St. Paul, Minn., residents died in separate northern Wisconsin accidents Sunday night. Roberta Ann Gage, 18, lost her life when a car struck the embankment of a farm driveway after leaving a Polk County road east of Milltown. Mrs. Mary Danielson, 20, died when she was struck by a car as she and three companions were standing along State 64 near Somerset.

Mrs. Fern Amundson, 73, of rural Nekoosa, and Larry Deniston, 17, of Wisconsin Rapids, lost their lives in a Wood County collision Sunday. Another Wood County crash Sunday killed Clifford.

Reinforce South Vietnamese

Americans Rush to Rescue

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters landed 400 American Air Cavalrymen on a battleground north of Saigon this afternoon to reinforce South Vietnamese commandos battered for three days by North Vietnamese troops.

At least 26 of the South Vietnamese troops were reported killed, 120 were wounded and 17 were missing. Four American Green Beret advisers with the South Vietnamese also were wounded.

The number of North Vietnamese killed was not known yet. Officers in the field said allied forces had been unable to sweep the battlefield because "every time we go out we get in trouble."

Find Enemy Camp
The fighting began Sunday when about 400 South Vietnamese commandos ran across a base camp of an enemy division 85 miles northeast of Saigon in jungled hills. The camp was 18 miles east of Song Be, a provincial capital the enemy division had been threatening.

The North Vietnamese struck back from all sides as the South Vietnamese came in.

Helicopters flew in 400 fresh commandos to reinforce the embattled battalion. On Monday the South Vietnamese tried to push back into the area of Sunday's fighting but again ran into strong resistance.

Lt. Gen. Julian J. Ewell, commander of the U.S. 2nd Field Force, visited the battle area and ordered U.S. troops from the 1st Air Cavalry Division to reinforce the South Vietnamese. The Air Cavalrymen met no resistance as they drove into the triple-canopied jungles, and fighting reportedly appeared to taper off at least for the time being.

Although fighting picked up again in the area between Saigon and the Cambodian border, there was no indication that the upsurge was the new high point in the enemy's fall campaign which U.S. officers have been predicting for this week.

Today is the 24th anniversary of Ho Chi Minh's proclamation of the Vietnamese Republic, and American officers expect the enemy to mark the occasion with stepped-up attacks. But the action reported today resulted from allied sweeps and patrols rather than aggressive enemy action.

Government headquarters reported that other South Vietnamese forces killed 18 enemy soldiers with claymore mines Monday night in an ambush 31 miles northwest of Saigon.

In War Zone C, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, helicopter-borne troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division clashed with small units of North Vietnamese troops and reported killing 52 of the enemy. Three Americans were reported wounded.

Dive bombers and helicopter gunships from the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry regiment destroyed 72 enemy bunkers and killed 16 troops with machine guns and rockets in an area two miles from the Cambodian border and 70 miles northwest of Saigon, U.S. headquarters said.

Nixon Tells Governors To End Their 'Dreams'

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors not to look for an outpouring of new federal funds as a byproduct of peace in Vietnam.

The President also defended his welfare reform program in a speech to the 61st National Governors' Conference Monday and advised the state executives against trying to tamper with it.

But the conference was to act today on a resolution urging that the federal government take over the financing of the entire welfare system.

"He said he was going to put the money where the problems are," said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, chief promoter of the takeover proposal, a five-year plan which goes far beyond the Nixon recommendations.

Nixon flew from his summer White House in San Clemente, Calif., for the defense of his domestic programs, and told his critics:

"I make just one suggestion — we've been on a road for a long time that is leading us to disaster and when you're on the wrong road you get off and get on a new road."

Nixon told the governors at their black tie conference ball there are "hard budget and tax decisions ahead."

"Dreams of unlimited billions of dollars being released once the war in Vietnam ends are just that — dreams," he said. "True, there will be additional money—but the claims on it already are enormous."

Still Need Priorities
"There should be no illusion that what some call the peace and growth dividend will automatically solve our national problems or release us from the need to establish priorities."

"In order to find the money for new programs," said Nixon, "we will have to trim it out of old ones."

McLemore Ramsey

MANILA (AP) — The U.S. for the junior officer of the Navy today ordered a court-martial for the commanding of the destroyer Frank E. son, 28, of Kansas City, Kan., but a Navy spokesman said Adm. Bringle would deal with him in a nonjudicial hearing.

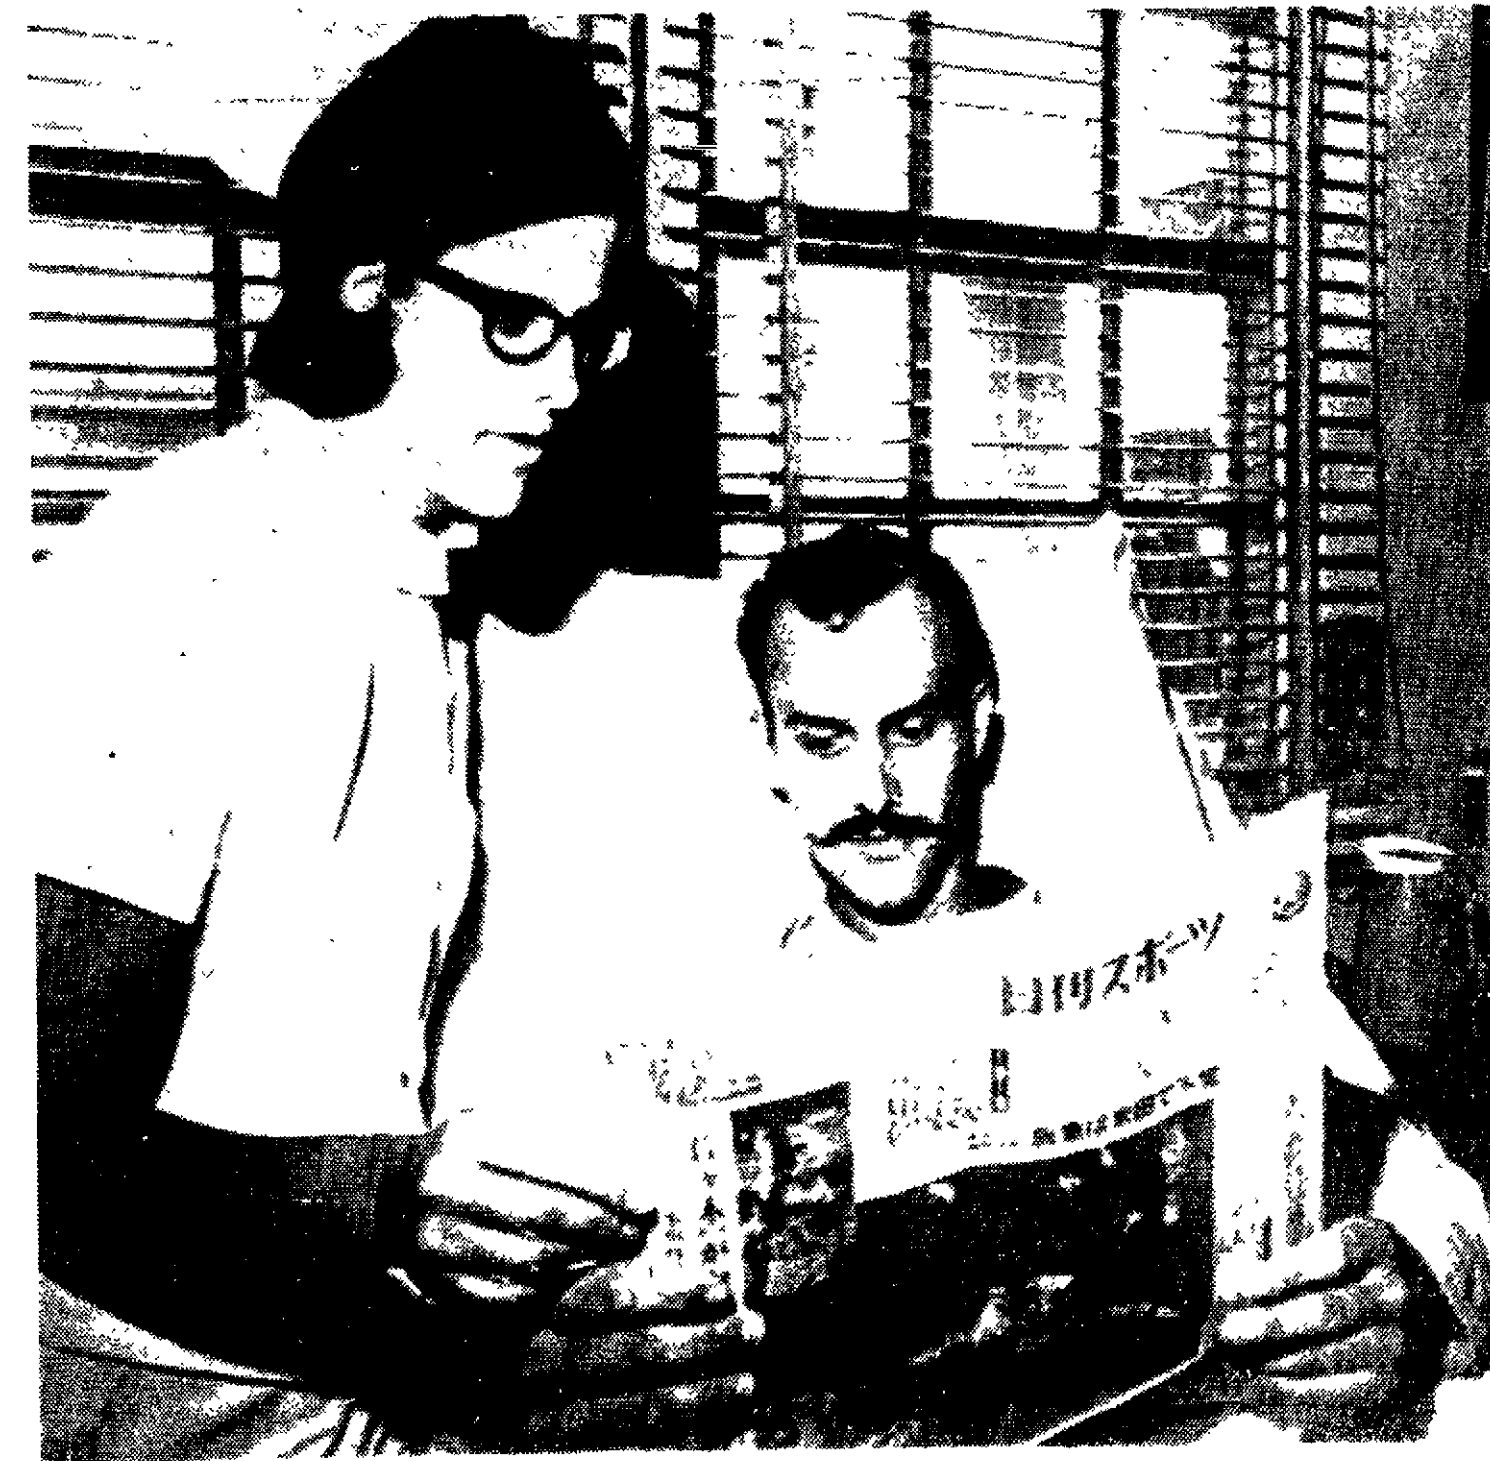

The Australian navy already has cleared the Melbourne's skipper at a court-martial of negligence.

The Melbourne and the Evans collided during night maneuvers in the South China Sea. The destroyer was acting as part of the carrier's screen and was changing station from ahead of the Melbourne to astern of her. The carrier cut the destroyer in half, sinking the bow half.

McLemore and Ramsey were charged with negligence and dereliction of duty. Adm. Bringle said he based these "obviously very serious" charges on the investigation conducted at Subic in August into the collision.

McLemore, who was asleep in his cabin at the time of the collision, is charged with failure to

'I'll be Off My Back in Two or Three Weeks'

A Mustachioed Rocky Bleier of Appleton catches up on sporting news in a Japanese newspaper Monday. He is recuperating from Vietnam war wounds he suffered two weeks ago when his platoon was ambushed by enemy troops south of Da Nang. The former Xavier High School and Notre Dame University star said today he expects to be fully recovered in time for the 1970 pro football season. "The doc said I'll be off my back in two or three weeks," he said. "After that, it'll be back to the States where I'll have to undergo physical therapy to strengthen my legs." Bleier, who played one year for the Pittsburgh Steelers before being drafted into the Army, has another year remaining on his military tour. He was just another patient in the hospital until the other patients — also wounded in the war — discovered he was a National Football League player. "Now they approach me for advice on football," he said. Bleier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bleier, 201 S. Walnut St., Appleton. (AP Wirephoto)

Central America in Path

Francelia Churns Toward Coast

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Francelia raked the coral islands of Bahia with gale winds today as it churned across the Gulf of Honduras toward the coast of Central America.

Residents in coastal areas of Honduras, Guatemala and British Honduras were warned to prepare for 100-mile-an-hour winds and surging storm tides.

Francelia was expected to go ashore about noon. Forecasters said the storm's eye probably would pass near Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, the country's main Atlantic port.

Storm warnings extended from the British Honduras capital of Belize, 120 miles southward to La Ceiba, Honduras. Puerto Barrios is located about midway between the two cities, at the head of the Gulf of Honduras.

Francelia's target area traditionally has been hit by hurricanes, including some of the most intense storms of the century. A gigantic hurricane killed 1,500 people in Belize in 1931 and Hurricane Hattie killed 300 more in 1961.

12 Injured in County Crashes Over Weekend

Several Hospitalized After Hitting Cars Parked Along Road

Twelve persons were injured in five Outagamie County highway accidents from late Saturday night through early today. Several persons were hospitalized.

An Algoma couple was hurt about 1:25 a.m. Sunday when the car they were in struck a parked auto on County Trunk EE, five miles northeast of Freedom.

Richard W. Lohrey, 28, Algoma, driver of the car, suffered head cuts and bumps, and was taken by ambulance to Kaukauna Community Hospital. His wife was taken to St. Vincent Hospital, Green Bay, by private auto, for treatment of head and face cuts.

County police said they were eastbound on EE when their car struck a parked car owned by Wayne M. Maes, 17, route 2, West De Pere. He said he left the car along the roadway, with the lights out, when it ran out of gas. Damage totaled about $1,900.

Teen-agers Hurt

Four teen-agers were injured in a similar accident, involving a parked car, about 12:55 a.m. Monday on Outagamie County Trunk E, a mile northeast of Freedom.

Police said a car driven by Nannette J. Van DenBerg, 17, route 2, West De Pere, ran into the left rear of a parked car owned by Jack V. Konkle, 18, route 1, Kaukauna.

Miss Van DenBerg suffered a broken nose and abrasions to her arms and legs, while Konkle complained of a neck injury. Two passengers in the Van DenBerg car also were injured. Baptist Stevens Jr., 16, route 2, West De Pere, had head and neck injuries, and Mary Darrow, 15, Sheboygan, suffered bumps and bruises.

Police said Miss Van DenBerg lost control of her car on the rain-slicked roadway when she applied her brakes. Damage totaled about $700.

Waupaca OKs Buying Grave Flag Holders

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County Board has approved the purchase of metal flag holder markers to be placed on 1,387 veterans graves in the county's 38 cemeteries.

Frank R. Smith, county veterans service officer, advised the supervisors Thursday that some of the graves of veterans are now marked with Grand Army of the Republic, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans and Veterans of Foreign War flag holders but that his office had been contacted by cemetery officials, requesting that that suitable flag holders be provided.

At present 300 markers are needed in the Waupaca and Clintonville cemeteries and 225 in New London.

The Waupaca County Veterans Service Office will provide a marker for each veteran in the future. Smith estimates this will average approximately 60 each year.

Many of the 880 Civil War veterans graves need new markers.

Cost to the county will be $3.05 each, with 10 per cent discount for quantities of 100.

Attendance Tops 20,000

Tractor Pulling Draws Crowd to Calumet Fair

CHILTON — Tractor pulling competition and favorable weather Monday, the last day of the four-day Calumet County Fair, boosted attendance figures to the 20,000 mark.

Fair secretary Herbert Harder said attendance the first two days topped that of last year. Rain on Sunday evening halted the stock car races, but crowds didn't leave the midway.

A full grandstand witnessed the second annual tractor pulling contest.

Top five winners in the 12,000-pound class were Fred Roeder, Ripon. His Minneapolis Moline pulled the stone boat 205 feet 2 inches. Kenneth Polisch Rosendale, 196 feet 10 inches, John Deere; Ronald Goeden, Ripon, 194 feet 11 inches, John Deere; Jim Scharr, Cottage Grove, 194 feet 7 inches, International Harvester; and Henry Friedenberg, Cottage Grove, 192 feet 11 inches, John Deere.

Modern Facility in Pine River Village's New Post Office Monument to Postmaster

BY STERLING SORESENSEN Special to The Post-Crescent

PINE RIVER — Doubled in size, modernized and thoroughly revamped, the white, cottage-type post office is a bright spot in this small Waushara County village.

Rebuilt and enlarged during the spring and summer months, the new facility occupies the site of the old and the difference between the two is striking.

The new boasts utilities and equipment foreign to the old and found in modern, larger offices. The building is viewed with community approval and pride.

Clarence H. Martin, whose postmastership runs back over 28 years, contracted for the work and owns the building. In a way, it stands as his leave-taking present to the community — a kind of monument to the veteran postmaster.

Martin will retire at the end of the year, having reached the compulsory retirement age of 70.

His home is on a farm northeast of here and in retirement he plans an active program of tree farming, fishing, gardening and travel.

The postmaster is widely known among colleagues and in the area. He is respected and known for his willingness to be of help and service to others, going far beyond the requirements of his office to assist them.

Successor Not Known
As postmaster, Martin followed the late Bert W. Sorensen, who chalked up a longevity record of 43 years in office. Martin's successor is not known.

The office serves some 200 rural route families and 100 villagers. Charles A. Lind is the rural carrier.

The job of re-structuring and refurbishing entailed the work and services of a number of firms and individuals — a well-driller, electrician, plumber, carpenters, roofers, tilers, a painter, woodworkers and haulers.

Pine River's new post office has a large bank of lock boxes, fluorescent lighting, air conditioning, natural gas heating, toilet facilities, a new safe, patron's and employees' counters and new tiling.

The lobby is enlarged, as is the rear section. Walls are done in light beige paneling and the color-complementing doors and fixtures are in light maple. A sorting table is scheduled to be installed and there will be other equipment for greater efficiency in the handling of the mail.

But essentially the job is completed and Clarence's memorial will stand long after his retirement.

21st Century Downtown Seen in New London Plan

Max Anderson Analysis Says Current Structure of Area From 'Horse and Buggy' Days

NEW LONDON — From "horse and buggy" days to the 21st century. This is the transition proposed by the city's downtown development plan prepared by Max Anderson Associates, Madison.

Anderson was not referring to the attitudes of residents but to the structure of buildings in the central business area and to the narrow streets and sidewalks.

The manner in which the downtown is built, does not lure shoppers, Anderson reports. The area must have better traffic circulation flow and be made more appealing to the pedestrian, Anderson reports.

Anderson said the city historically was an agricultural-industrial center which has grown slowly with the market area. During recent decades, however, a decline in agricultural employment and population has caused sales to slip.

While an increased industrial base has offset much of the loss, the downtown is in jeopardy because of mobility.

More Jobs
Downtown development can spur population growth, increase economic opportunity, build a stronger tax base, develop a greater variety of merchandise, and provide more jobs.

"Revitalization of New London's commercial facilities should encourage greater numbers of people to choose New London over other cities as a place to live," Anderson states.

He explained one of the important influences on people selecting a place to live is the quality of available shopping facilities. As mobility can be a detriment in pulling shoppers away from a community, it can also be an asset by pulling workers from surrounding cities to live in New London.

Industrialists tend to select a general region for location and then make the final determination on the community in the region offering the best schools, shopping, recreational and other amenities necessary for managers and employees.

Shopper Influence
Influencing the shopper are price, quality and variety of goods; courteous salespeople; attractive stores and settings; parking; ease of vehicular movement, and pedestrian circulation.

One out of eight dollars paid the city results from downtown New London. Anderson states increasing this retail and service trade by a revitalized downtown will lead to an even stronger base.

Continued deterioration of the business district will threaten the downtown's ability to carry a large share of the tax burden. Development of businesses outside the city limits will tend to create vacancies in the downtown and depreciate values.

Redevelopment should create greater shopper interest and subsequently result in more variety of merchandising as businesses are influenced in locating by the amount of purchasing power.

As the downtown develops, more employees in commercial stores, banks and service establishments will be needed, the report points out.

Manawa Wife Pleads Innocent to Battery
WAUPACA — Mrs. Alvin Buss, Manawa, pleaded innocent to the charge of battery in County Court Branch 2 Thursday.

The complaint was filed by her husband, who stated that about 10 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 27, Mrs. Buss came home and struck him with a bottle or lamp while he lay sleeping.

Mrs. Buss is free on $100 bond. Her trial is set for 10 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 11.

UAW Representation 2nd Union Vote Set At Waupaca Foundry

WAUPACA — The National Labor Relations Board will conduct its second election this year Sept. 26 among the 220 production and maintenance employees at the Waupaca Foundry, Inc.

On June 27, Foundry employees turned down by a vote of 118 to 96 representation in collective bargaining by the United Auto Workers International, Region 10.

Objections were filed with the NLRB, alleging that there was interference in the June election. Joseph Cohen, assistant regional director of NLRB Region 30, Milwaukee, said Friday that both parties had waived all formalities of any hearing and had not filed written reports.

"The NLRB did investigate the objections and then talked with both parties and they agreed to rerun the election," Cohen reported. It is the NLRB's function to run the election and it assumes the total expense.

In a letter to the foundry's employees, C. W. Schwenn, president, explained the reason for the new election but disclosed none of the objections filed by the UAW. He indicated that the firm's agreement to the election was to dispose of the matter once and for all.

'Sweet Adelines' Organize Chorus In Waupaca Area

WAUPACA — The Sweet Adelines will have an organizational meeting at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 13 in the Central School multi-purpose room.

The chorus is for the girls from 18 to 80 who like to sing four-part harmony in barbershop style, says Mrs. Ben Rickel, who is handling publicity.

"An invitation goes out to all women in Waupaca and surrounding communities to join us that evening," she added. "We'll sing a few old favorites and have a lot of fun."

The Sweet Adelines Merrill Chorus will sing and several local barbershop quartets will harmonize.

Safe Streets Act Helps Our Valley

The Safe Streets Act passed by Congress in 1968 in an atmosphere of national anxiety over law and order has given birth to two proposed programs in the Fox Valley. One is sorely needed; the other is creative and dynamic.

For years it has been obvious that Fox Valley police agencies should find a systematic way to share information on crimes, evidence, suspects and criminal records. It is only logical that a youth who shoplifts at an Appleton store might also have shoplifted in Neenah or Kaukauna. A man who broke into homes in Kimberly may well have committed the same offense in Little Chute.

Right now police have no way to compare notes to help solve each others crimes. And when a young vandal is brought before a judge in Outagamie County, he might very well be treated as a first offender though he had been caught at vandalism many times before in Winnebago County.

This is hardly efficient law enforcement, but the police agencies have never found a way to rectify the situation.

Now law enforcement planners of the Fox Valley Council of Governments, working with local police officials, have designed a central records keeping system. The system makes use of data processing methods and equipment.

The project, if approved by the Wisconsin Council of Criminal Justice, will receive 40 per cent federal funding from monies appropriated under the Safe Streets Act. The council will consider the program soon.

The state council last week approved federal funding for the most ambitious program of crime prevention ever to be considered in the Valley.

Also designed by COG planners and police officials, it aims to bring home the effects of crime to junior and senior high school students. It is a four-year program of education in the law, the role of law in our society, and the penalties for breaking the law.

We know that in order to slow the crime rate, which is rising in the Valley as fast as anyplace else, we must reach the juvenile delinquent or the potential delinquent. We also know that most of our youth know surprisingly little about the law, and must be taught. The schools are the best place to start.

Critics of the block grant system used to disperse funds under the Safe Streets Act claim nearly all of the funds should have gone to the big cities whose streets are torn by violence. We cannot disagree that those places need help fast, but programs like these two designed for the Valley hold out hope that new jungles of crime will not grow up.

Losing Our Best Students

The revelation of the Coordinating Council for Higher Education, in the first complete survey of its kind, that more than two-thirds of the high school graduates in Wisconsin this year will continue their education tells a story of a continuing problem of financing higher education in Wisconsin.

Not only is the ratio of post-high school training increasing steadily, but the ratio of those students enrolling at tax-supported institutions is rising as well. Within a few years, according to the projections, 80 per cent of four out of five of the boys and girls leaving high school will head for some kind of liberal arts, professional or technical education with terminal certification.

These are facts for our policy makers in Madison, our heads of higher education institutions, and the private citizen with civic awareness to ponder. On the one hand they point to a standard of life in this state — and in this country — beyond anything that earlier generations knew or even dreamed about. On the other, they point to the inevitability of a tax bite that will take ever more of the incomes of the producing citizens of Wisconsin, until and unless the population is stabilized, which some sociologists forecast.

In perusing the report of the CCHE, however, we observed a fact that has had less attention, unfortunately, than the impact of the massive enrollment growth.

Too much of the talent in our high school senior classes is being lost, in the sense that some of the best of our high school graduates are not among the young armies of freshmen now heading for the college and university campuses.

The CCHE calls that fact "significant" and we agree.

For example, 14 per cent of the high school seniors who ranked in the upper quarter of their classes in academic stature when they were polled last spring reported that they did not intend to pursue their education beyond the high school. More disturbing, eight per cent of the seniors reporting an "A" average in high school did not expect to enroll in college.

We confess to some perplexity as well as disappointment, in this revelation. The majority of the population of Wisconsin lives within commuting distance of a publicly supported campus or campus branch, as a result of a big and costly expansion program of the last decade. Loan and grant programs are numerous and well-endowed, when measured against any other time. Summer employment opportunities are abundant. Are we permitting some of our best young people to be detoured from fruitful careers available to educated men and women for lack of adequate counseling in the high schools? We hope the CCHE refines its poll data to provide clues to the causes of this erosion of the fittest among our young people, and then examines avenues for resolving the problem.

Postal Workers' Wages

The National Association of Letter Carriers is appealing to the people of the country for help in persuading Congress to adopt legislation this fall designed to provide what the association calls "economic justice" for postal workers. The NALC is asking patrons of the postal service to write their representatives and senators on behalf of the legislation.

The bill now before the House goes considerably further than providing pay increases. It would establish a Federal Wage Commission and provide for binding arbitration to arrive at future wage levels, would advance employes two steps in wage categories and reduce the number of years required to reach top step.

The NALC advances some sound arguments in favor of such legislation. They are only asking, they say, "to receive from their government employer just treatment equal to that granted, as a matter of course, in the private sector. They want to be paid as well as workers in similar jobs are paid in private industry. They want their unions to be recognized by law, and to have management subjected to penalties upon breach of contract just as the employes are now subjected to such penalties."

The Post-Crescent can support the postal workers generally in their wage proposals. Traditionally they have been underpaid in comparison with private industry. In recent years, for example, they received a 2.9 per cent increase in 1967 and another 4.1 per cent increase last Jan. 1.

But there is a curious conflict in the position taken by the NALC. At the same time that the association is pressing for Congressional approval of the above legislation, it is fighting tooth and nail against the proposal to put the postal service under a government corporation. The NALC is leading the campaign against what it calls "the current effort to steal the postal service out from under the noses of the people and hand it over to a corporation."

The chief reason the NALC opposes the corporation plan is that postal workers would presumably lose their civil service status.

So in this respect the NALC is asking for its cake and wanting to eat it too. They want to be treated the same as workers in private industry, but they don't want to give up their preferred treatment as civil servants of the government.

Lightning Causes 2 Farm Fires

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 28, 1869.

During a thunder storm in Dale, on Monday, the lightning struck a shock of wheat in the field of Sam Rhoades, setting it afire. Calling out the neighbors, the fire was extinguished without serious damage to the rest of the farm.

A large, new barn in the Town of Ellington, owned by John Durick, and containing 13 tons of hay, was struck by lightning and burned. Loss was about $800 and there was no insurance.

As the "rainy" season is evidently at an end, very many of our readers will be interested to know that the annual camp-meeting for the Appleton District of the Methodist Conference will be

Taylor Writes

Events of Sept. 1, 1939 Recalled: Nazi Germany Attacked Poland

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

At 4:40 a.m. September 1, 1939, the Germans attacked Poland by surprise. I was there. I experienced with the Poles their fight on these days and nights soaked with stars and sorrows.

Let me tell you what I saw the Poles do, and what the odds against them actually were, before the Nazis and Communists together overwhelmed them.

Hitler made this attack on a pretext of self-defense, trumped up and forged by his own secret service; the attack that ultimately put the world into marching boots in a war that killed 35 million persons. 72 NAZI DIVISIONS

The Polish-German frontier was 1,200 miles along. The Germans threw 72 divisions against Poland, more than twice the force that the Western powers have today in NATO. Poland could meet the assault with only 39 infantry divisions, 14 infantry brigades, 13 cavalry brigades and 403 operational aircraft.

The Germans rejected the possibility of a French-British attack against Germany's Western front on the Rhine, and, tragically, there was none. The Nazis left only 13 divisions facing west.

By September 5, while Poland was in her death throes, it became clear that the French and British would not even attack Germany in the air from the west. Accordingly, the Germans hurried even more aircraft into their Polish invasion, to a total of 2,600.

Red Russia was hand-in-hand with Nazi Germany. On August 26 these two totalitarianians had signed a mutual nonaggression pact. One purpose of this was the division of Poland between the Soviet and Nazi Germany.

The scheme repeated an ancient tragedy. Even at the time of Napoleon's aggression against Poland, that country had already been dismembered and partitioned three times in 23 years. Poland has always been in the untenable position of a land mass without natural borders. And again and again, faced by larger enemy forces, the cruel weight of overwhelming numbers has mocked the destiny of the Poles and the land they love.

STABBED IN BACK

On September 16 the Red Army entered Poland from the east. As Mussolini stabbed France in the back when France was prostrate, so did the Soviet stab Poland.

The Russian horde occupied nearly half of the country in its savage carnival of bloodshed and heartbreak, and duplicated the Nazi horrors in the half that Russia seized.

Nevertheless, even this double attack from west and east did not knock Poland out of the war. Within one month a Polish government-in-exile was established in Paris. Heroic Gen. Waldayslaw Sikorski, the premier, formed a new Polish army. It was made up of military escapees from the homeland and of Poles from all over the world.

A brigade of this army fought in Norway. Another fought in North Africa. Two divisions fought in the Battle of France. In fact, when France signed an armistice with Germany, the Polish army in France was still bleeding and dying against the enemy.

A new Polish air force, escaping to England after Dunkirk, took a courageous part in the Battle of Britain. Four Polish squadrons shot down 815 Nazi planes. And, when the war finally ended, the Poles were fighting at our side under Gen. Mark W. Clark in Italy.

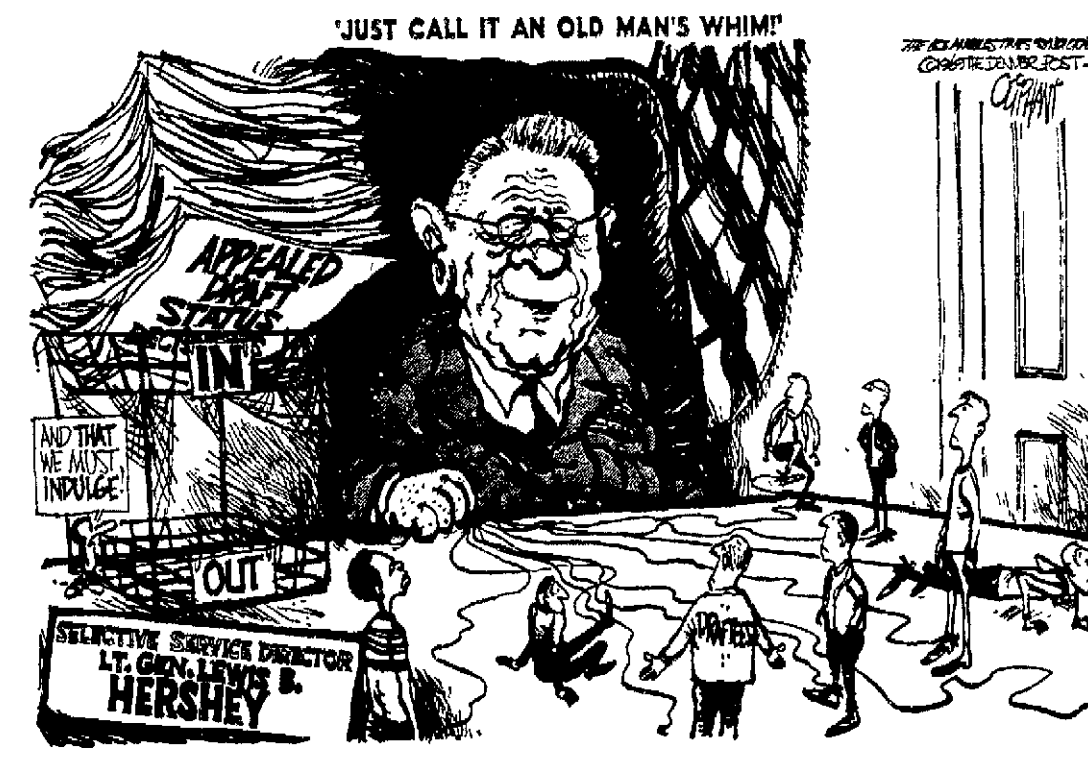

IT WAS BLOODY SAGA

The Communists captured the remainder of Poland as the Nazis withdrew. And a darker, bloodier saga of tyranny, treachery and brutality has seldom been written in the history of mankind. The Red government shot all resisting Poles at Warsaw's ancient Barbican wall, as had the Nazis. It performed the same horrible genocide as the Nazis.

In addition to the assassination pits of other unspeakable horrors, the Red government tore hundreds of thousands of the helpless Poles from their homes and sent them to Vaygach and Novaya Zemlya islands in the Arctic Ocean and into the ghastly wastes of Eastern Siberia. It even refused to allow the 100,000 free Poles fighting at our side to return to Poland. These Polish freedom fighters remain homeless to this very day at the hands of the present Warsaw government.

Last July 22 that government celebrated its 25th anniversary, an occasion which, in truth, celebrated the elevation and glorification of all that has symbolized the attack of the free spirit of man since the beginning of time.

Knowles Did Soul Searching Before He Approved Budget

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — It is not difficult to guess that Gov. Knowles' approval of all except minor sections of the highly controversial budget bill sent to him by the legislature was one of the most difficult acts of his public life.

There were hints in his judgment with respect to various programs?"

The decision is what could have been expected by anyone who is familiar with Knowles, the man and politician. He chose to avoid an extraordinary use of the veto power to impose his will upon a coordinate branch of the legislature and to demonstrate his consistency of conviction by calling the legislature into special session to consider anew the issues upon which the lawmakers and the executive have differed so strenuously. DEMOCRATS MUST HELP

The final decision rests now, in effect, upon the Democratic minority in the Assembly which refused to give him a single vote of support in the regular session, but which will find it difficult, if not acutely embarrassing, to maintain that posture in the special session. As Knowles has noted, his major remaining desire in an urban aid program.

He has the backing of the Milwaukee city administration, the Milwaukee County Board and other urban spokesmen who have discussed their problems with him in terms that can only be described as beseeching. If the Democrats, most of whom represent urban areas, decide to back the Knowles supplementary budget, there will be enough Republicans to give him the victory even in the unlikely event that a majority of the Republican assemblymen deny him again.

Thus the issue is joined. Are the Democrats more interested in making a record of Republican embarrassment and frustration that will profit them — they have thought, in 1970 elections — or will they heed the pleas of Milwaukee County Executive John Doyle, Mayor Henry Maier and the other men of the Alliance of Cities whose constituents represent the votes the Democrats must have? PUBLIC IS SILENT

There remains only one element of mystery in the enervating, bitter and protracted budget fight — the virtual silence of the public. There is a saying in the Capitol that legislators can feel heat even if they cannot see the light. Unless there is more showing of public interest, the issue will remain in doubt in spite of the governor's adroit handling of the most difficult problem of his career.

Strange Statues in Africa Not Unique

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some friends of mine, who have just returned from Africa, were relating stories about the strange statues erected by native tribes as shrines of worship.

They seemed to think this was exclusively a primitive custom, but men have always erected monuments to odd objects of wonder and devotion. In America alone, we have had some of the weirdest commemorations known to man.

When the pioneer Mormons in Salt Lake City were ready to harvest their first grain crop, crickets and grasshoppers threatened to destroy the fields. But, just then, sea gulls by the thousands came up from the lake and devoured the insects, thus saving the harvest. The gull is a "sacred" bird in Utah today, and a monument to its honor stands in Salt Lake City.

An effigy of the codfish hangs in the Massachusetts Statehouse, and another has hung in one assembly hall or another for more than 200 years. The codfish saved the early settlers from starving.

There is a monument in the public square of Enterprise, Ala., from which a huge boll weevil, rampant, looks down upon the town. It seems that the weevil destroyed the cotton one year, and forced the farmers to diversify their crops, which turned out to be a blessing.

At Little Compton, R. I., a monument to a hen commemorates the origin of the Rhode Island Red breed of chicken. And elsewhere in that state, at Newport, stands a monument of Michelle Felice Corne, the first man who dared to eat a tomato.

We must not forget, of course, Robert Quillen, the humorist of Fountain Inn, S. C., who put up a marble shaft five feet high in his garden, with the inscription: "To Eve, the First Woman."

When Lord Byron's Newfoundland dog died, the poet buried him in the ruins of the ancient church at Newstead Abbey, with his grave marked by a tall and finely carved pedestal bearing the inscription: "Near this spot are deposited the remains of one who possessed beauty without vanity, strength without insolence, courage without ferocity, and all the virtues of man without his vices."

Water Bottling Gets Boost From New Diet

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The water diet, a new and currently popular method of losing weight, is giving the bottled water market its biggest boost since pollution made the country water conscious, according to the Mountain Valley Water Co.

Devised by a physician who has treated over 10,000 obese men and women, the diet is said to take off five to 10 per cent of the dieter's weight in the first week.

The diet includes as much as the dieter wishes of these high protein foods only—eggs, skim milk, cottage cheese, chicken and turkey, lean meat and fish, sea food—and eight 10-ounce glasses of water daily.

The water is essential and stressed by the physician, says the company, because a great amount of body fat is burned up on this diet and the water is needed to wash out waste products and ashes of burnt fat.

Law Best Protection Against Sex Education

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
Conc: ming the editorial, "Sex Education and the Legislature," Monday, Aug. 18.
So "sex is here to stay!" Well hallelujah! We needed to know that!

The first point that you try to make against the new bill restricting sex information in the schools is that it may create confusion; that it is vague; that the teacher won't know what to teach.

I disagree. It is fairly easy to understand the difference between teaching the basic biological facts of life, and teaching the methods of contraception and sexual techniques.

I say that if the teacher is confused then she doesn't know the subject and has no business teaching it.

Who is to determine if a teacher is qualified to teach sex education classes? The school board? Do we parents just hope and pray that the teacher is sensitive and wise enough to know how far she should go?

As a second point you say that the state already has interfered with legislation dealing with education. I say "thank God that we have someone to help keep the ultra-liberals from cramming programs like sex education down our throats!"

Next you say, in essence, that children are lacking information on human reproduction and contraceptives due to failure of parents to provide this information because of ignorance or embarrassment. Yet, in the previous paragraph you say "If the assemblymen think that youngsters of that age don't know anything about sex, they have taken even more of an strict approach than usual." Who's confused now?

I agree that kids know more about sex nowadays at a much earlier age. Still you blame ignorance as the cause of illegitimate births. Ignorance of what? Contraceptions? I really don't think that teaching kids different methods of contraception and techniques of sexual intercourse is going to keep young girls from getting pregnant. It's just another way of saying if you're going to indulge in intercourse, enjoy it but don't get pregnant. This is just the thing the assembly is fighting. This is why we need restrictions and guidelines.

I am so tired of hearing what failures we parents are. This could be true in that we fail to teach our children that they alone must be responsible for their actions. Not their parents.

Let Mr. Cuff Go on Eating DDT; This Reader Wants Out

Editor The Post-Crescent.
I often enjoy reading letters from Mr. O. P. Cuff in the People's Forum not because I agree with him, but because I admire his spunk in caring about events enough to be vocal about them. But his letter on August 26, criticizing the Wisconsin ban on DDT as a Democratic publicity stunt was too serious to be amusing.

I refuse to believe that only Democrats care enough about people and this earth to warn against the use of a poison that has been spread about at the rate of about 200 million pounds annually.

We consumers have perhaps already paid too great a price for having eaten the potatoes, cucumbers and cabbage that Mr. Cuff has happily been dusting with DDT for "over twenty years." Today the average American has 8-10 parts per million DDT in his body, according to the U. S. Public Health Service. The effects of this poison on various animals has shown it to cause central nervous system disorders, reduced calcium absorption by the bones, disturbed liver functions, to be much suspect as a cause of

An Illusion Picture Frame Looks Like a Shadow Box

BY CAPPY DICK

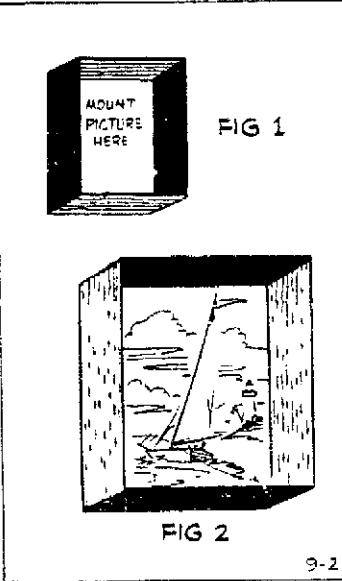

A picture frame that looks like a shadow box but actually is a flat piece of paper which conveys the illusion of depth is fun to construct and display on your wall. Any boy or girl can make the frame with the help of paints.

First, select a picture to be displayed. It can be cut from an old magazine. Mount it on a piece of construction paper or poster board. Then with pencil outline a frame like that in figure 1. Where the black borders appear use a solid color of paint, preferably a dark color. Where the striped borders appear use a lighter color.

When you have completed the coloring and placed the picture on the wall you will discover that no matter whether you look at it from the left side or the right, from below or from above, it will always seem to be framed in a shadow box. This is because the way the frame is drawn creates an optical illusion.

It doesn't make any difference if the solid colors are at the sides of the frame (figure 1) or at the top and bottom as in figure 2. The illusion of depth will be there.

Changing Deductibles May Save on Insurance

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Which makes more financial sense to you?

A family health insurance policy which will pay the costs of routine, occasional visits to your doctor or to hospital but with a ceiling of, say, $2,000 in total costs covered — or a policy which does not pay your little bills but which will pay most of the costs of a terrible and costly accident?

Porter

Almost surely, your choice would be the latter — assuming each type of coverage costs about the same. Yet, if you study your present health insurance policy, I'll wager you'll find that you're overloaded with "first dollar" coverage and that the limits of your doctor-hospital insurance are no more than $5,000-$10,000. You are not, therefore, protected in this era of soaring medical care costs against the really catastrophic accident.

Similarly, under your present policy, I'll wager your disability income coverage has only a relative short "elimination" period before your benefits begin.

Again, it's likely that your automobile collision insurance has the typical $50 deductible clause — requiring you to pay only for very minor repairs due to accidents — while the limits of your liability coverage are the popular $10,000 per individual injured in a car accident caused by you and $20,000 for all individuals injured in a single accident. These limits are ridiculously low in view of some of today's jury awards. Would you feel, if you lost an arm or a leg in a car accident caused by another driver, that $10,000 would be adequate compensation for your loss?

The plain fact, which millions have lost sight of, is that the original concept of our insurance system was protection against financial catastrophes with which the typical person would not cope. Millions of you are using your insurance policies, naively and often tragically, as a form of budgeting via the insurance company for little medical bills, little car repair costs — when you should be doing this budgeting for yourself at far lower cost.

Here are illustrations of how you could drastically hike various types of your insurance coverage in exchange for higher deductibles:

— A frame house in a midwest town, valued at $30,000 today, might carry a three-year homeowner's insurance premium of $375. However, if the homeowner accepted a $500 deductible, an amount he probably could afford to pay for losses due to fire or theft, the three-year premium would drop to $281 — and he could use the $94 saved to boost his comprehensive personal liability coverage.

— A major medical insurance policy would give a 28-year-old man coverage up to $5,000 for himself, his wife and two children, with a $500 deductible — for a cost of $106.37. If he raised the deductible to $1,500, the insurance company for little benefit to $20,000 while slashing his annual premium to $69.93. With the $36.44 saved, he could buy a disability insurance policy which would pay him $200 a month for two years — after a 90-day waiting period. He also could dramatically extend the period of his disability benefits and cut his premium if he would be willing to boost the elimination period (the time before he starts to draw benefits).

Even more impressive are the savings which you can achieve on your automobile collision and comprehensive insurance. Just a $50 deductible can save 45 to 55 per cent on the cost of full comprehensive auto coverage.

The key is to use the savings to beef up your major medical insurance coverage, your disability income coverage and/or your auto and homeowner's liability insurance coverage — the really important coverages against catastrophes.

If your auto liability insurance premium is now $100 a year for "10-20-5" ($10,000-20,000-5,000), it would cost you only $28 more a year to raise these limits to $100,000-300,000-10,000. (Copyright 1969)

City Seeks Housing Code Aid

Enforcement of Appleton's information about "Open Space" and other federal park purchase and development programs, is marking time while city officials search out information about federal assistance with the enforcement program. James Schultz, city housing inspector, dislikes saying the project is marking time. "We have backed up to reorganize," he said.

Jack Hetu, director of planning, has been authorized to travel to Chicago to ask officials at the regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) there about a number of programs.

Housing code enforcement aids are high on his list.

Various Programs

HUD has programs to provide financial assistance in varying degrees both to defray inspection and enforcement expenses of communities and to help property owners to bring their houses up to the standards required in the federally-approved housing code.

Both loans and outright grants to pay some or all the costs are available, Hetu said. Though he has received federal catalogues naming the programs, he lacks detailed information. That is what he wants in Chicago.

Hetu says it is no secret that there has been what he terms a "lack of rapport" between the HUD office and Appleton over a number of years. Several times, the city and the regional office have experienced friction over Appleton applications to participate in various programs, Hetu said.

He also wants to gather

Presumably, a local official or department should be in charge. Hetu will ask the HUD officials to tell him who at city hall should serve as the local clearing house, processing applications, giving advice and judging eligibility of applicants for aid.

Time is important. Schultz said one reason he has slowed down his inspections since a fast start during July is that if he gets too far ahead on inspections, many premises will have to be inspected over again when it comes time to issue enforcement orders.

Grand Chute Woman Taken to Hospital After Apparent Suicide Try

A 55-year-old woman was taken by ambulance from her town of Grand Chute home to Appleton Memorial Hospital about 9:30 a.m. Monday after she reportedly attempted to take her life.

Outagamie County authorities said the woman first telephoned her daughter, who lives out of town, and told her she was going to kill herself. The daughter notified the sheriff's department.

Police arrived at the woman's home to find that she had a severe cut on her left wrist, and had lost a considerable amount of blood. The woman also said she had taken sleeping pills. She cut herself with a razor blade.

Police used first aid and administered oxygen before the ambulance arrived.

Fire Destroys Frame Home Near Shiocton

Three Children Flee Flames; Most of Contents Are Lost

SHIOCTON — Fire that apparently started from defective wiring in the kitchen area, destroyed the Santos Anaya home on Outagamie County Trunk P, near State 187, Sunday morning.

The small, frame house was owned by Mrs. Matilda Gehring, Kimberly.

Three of the Anaya children, including a young, crippled child, were home when the fire broke out, but they escaped safely. Mrs. Anaya and other children were at church when the fire was discovered. Six persons reportedly lived in the 1½-story home. Anaya, 42, is reportedly moved into a serving a 90-day term in the Outagamie County Jail for obstructing an officer.

Shiocton Fire Chief Dale Nichols said the house was burning out of control when his men scene about two hours.

Wisconsin's Health Residents of State Need Iodized Salt

BY E. H. JORRIS, M.D.
State Health Officer

The endocrine glands make up a kind of traffic control system for the human body. They tell the body to speed up or slow down or take certain turns at certain times. They tell a fetus to develop feminine or masculine characteristics, a child when to stop growing or a mother when to start or stop producing milk. They do these, and many other remarkable things, by sending out messages in the form of hormones to various parts of the body.

Among the most important and interesting of the endocrine glands is the thyroid. This tiny gland, located in the neck, operates in a number of ways in concert with the other endocrine glands, but its main importance is in controlling growth and development. The health of the thyroid is particularly significant to children, where a shortage of the thyroid hormone may lead to physical stunting and mental retardation, known as cretinism.

The common result of thyroid underactivity is goiter. This swelling of the gland occurs as it tries to compensate for its hormone lack by progressively enlarging in size.

Needs Tiny Amount

There are several kinds of goiters, but the most common, called simple goiter, is caused by a shortage or absence of iodine. The thyroid needs only a tiny amount of iodine each day, about one two-millionth of an ounce. Even this small amount must find its way from the soil and water into the food supply and then to the body. Many areas of the United States, including most of Wisconsin, are low in iodine and a home grown supply of food may well lack sufficient iodine to supply the tiny amounts needed.

A simple idea, the addition of iodine to common salt to supply the daily needs, seemed well on the way to eradicating the simple goiter problem in Wisconsin. However, there are now some indications in the state that the incidence of goiter is increasing. There are two likely reasons for this suspected rise. First, pre-seasoned foods without iodine content are now more widely used. Second, the lack of concern over goiter in recent years has led to the use of table salt without much attention paid to whether or not it is iodine fortified.

Iodized salt is no more expensive than the regular and any extra iodine that the body gets is soon eliminated. It seems clear, then, that everyone should make sure that the table salt they use is labeled, "IODIZED."

Applications To Academies Being Taken

Young men interested in appointment to the Army and Navy military academies at West Point and Annapolis in 1970 were asked today by 8th Dist. Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, to contact him at once.

All candidates are required to take a series of tests in competition for appointment. Byrnes said the first test, conducted by the Civil Service Commission, will be given on Nov. 4, 1969. Byrnes will accept applications until Oct. 11.

No appointments will be made to the Air Force Academy, since the district's quota is presently filled. The district will be entitled to one appointment each to the Military and Naval academies.

Application blanks and full information concerning the academies, requirements for admission, and Byrnes' procedure in making appointments can be obtained by writing to W. Byrnes at 2206 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Judge Delays Arraignment on Chilton Stabbing

CHILTON — Calumet County Judge D. H. Seбора this morning adjourned arraignment of a 19-year-old woman on charges of injury by negligent use of weapon until 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Judith Hanna, 19, 222 E. Main St., was declared indigent and the court appointed Tom Lucas, New Holstein as her attorney.

Miss Hanna was taken into custody about 1:35 a.m. Saturday shortly after George Brown, 40, of 222 E. Main St., was stabbed during a reported argument in Miss Hanna's apartment.

Brown, who suffered puncture wounds, was released from Calumet Memorial Hospital Saturday evening.

Police chief Dan Albeydl said Brown and the girl were apparently arguing in the kitchen when the alleged stabbing occurred. Brown collapsed on the stairway.

Miss Hanna reportedly fled with her two-year-old child. The youngster was later found at the home of a friend. She was apprehended near the hospital. Judge Seбора set bond at $400.

Wolf River Tour Scheduled by Assembly Group

MADISON — The Conservation Committee of the State Assembly has agreed to make an official tour of the Wolf River from New London to Oshkosh on Sept. 12 to study various problems of the area.

This announcement was made jointly last week by Rep. Francis Byers (R-Marion) and Rep. Gordon Bradley (R-Winnebago).

The tour, which will be a committee executive session, will be led by Assembly majority floor leader Paul Alfonso, committee chairman, and will mark the first time such a tour has been made.

During the day-long trip by boat, committee members will see and hear about such problems as pollution, streambank erosion, high water damage, and loss of bog. The group plans an extended lunch at Fremont where members will confer with city mayors, village presidents, and town and county board chairmen.

Junta Takes Over Libya From King, Policies Uncertain

TUNIS (AP) — Libya's new military rulers left much of the world guessing today about their future policies toward the West and Israel. But there was general expectation that the West's huge stake in Libyan oil was not endangered.

Drew Pearson Dies at 71 of Heart Attack

Controversial Author Wrote Column on Capital for 40 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Drew Pearson, whose reports on skeletons in government closets put him in the center of numerous controversies, is dead at the age of 71.

He suffered a heart attack

Pearson

Monday at his Maryland farm and was dead on arrival at Georgetown Hospital.

For almost four decades Pearson wrote "The Washington Merry-Go-Round," which carried his version of behind-the-scenes government action. He often raised the ire of officials, and two presidents called him a liar.

Column to Continue

Jack Anderson, co-author the past 10 years, said he will continue the column which is carried in 625 daily and weekly newspapers.

Pearson's most recent major crusade in 1966-67 led to a Senate censure of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., after allegations he had used political funds for personal purposes.

It was Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman who denounced Pearson. Roosevelt called him a liar when the columnist reported Secretary of State Cordell Hull wanted to see Russia "bled white" during World War II.

Truman once referred to Pearson as an "s.o.b." after several columns which angered the President.

And the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., resorted to physical violence during a long feud with Pearson in the 1950s. McCarthy admitted hitting Pearson with his hand at a fashionable club in Washington; the columnist said the senator kicked him in the groin.

The squabble got into the courts in a $5.1 million damage suit brought by Pearson against McCarthy and several others, including the late columnist Westbrook Pegler. It was dropped later.

Pilots Threaten Strike Over Hijack Captives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Israeli men who were aboard a hijacked American airliner remained in Syrian custody today, and the international airline pilots' organization threatened a 24-hour strike if they are not freed by next Monday.

The plane's four other Israeli passengers, three women and a teen-age girl, returned to Tel Aviv Monday after 64 hours in Damascus. Ninety-five passengers of other nationalities and the airline's crew of 12 were released Saturday.

A man and a woman from the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a guerrilla organization, diverted the Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 jet to Damascus Friday after it left Rome for Tel Aviv.

Drafts Statement

The executive committee of the 44,000-member International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations met in Paris Monday and drafted a statement calling on the United Nations to take immediate action to free the hijackers and ensure the hijackers would be punished.

Ole Forsberg, Finnish president of the organization, said he had cabled the membership asking for a strike authorization and he expected overwhelming approval.

"If the passengers are not freed before Sept. 8, we will go on strike" 15 days later, he said. In Cairo, meanwhile, leaders of the four countries directly involved in hostilities with Israel began meeting to coordinate military and other policies.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said after a three-hour meeting Monday Egyptian President Gamal Ab-alignment with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and the more militant Arab nations. And the end may be in sight for the U.S. Air Force's big Wheelus base outside Tripoli and the small British bases at Tobruk and El Adem.

The junta headed by Col. Saad Eddine Abbou Chouireb which seized power early Monday from King Idris proclaimed "the Libyan Arab Republic," a name echoing those adopted by such revolutionary Arab nations as Egypt, Syria and Yemen. Iraq and Egypt were the first nations to recognize the new regime.

"Socialist" Regime

Tripoli Radio broadcasts stressed the "socialist" nature of the new regime and said the revolution stands for "Arab unity, socialism and freedom," the slogan of the Baath Socialist radicals in power in Iraq and Syria. But broadcast statements also gave assurances that foreign policy would remain unchanged, and foreign nationals and their property would be protected.

Informed sources in Paris said the junta called in representatives of the U.S., Britain, France and the Soviet Union and told them all international agreements would be respected, including contracts for the American and West European oil concessions which have made Libya the world's fourth largest oil producer.

Oil Loading Normal

The Occidental Petroleum Corp., which has one of the biggest American oil holdings, said its tankers radioed that loading of Libyan oil was proceeding normally.

There was speculation, however, that the new regime would renew demands on the U.S. and Britain to close their military bases in the country.

Contracts to buy some $500 million worth of arms from Britain also appeared in danger of cancellation, although British officials in London expressed confidence the new regime would honor them.

Broadcasts after the coup also repeatedly voiced support of Arab nationalism and the "Arab nation," expressions which are mandatory for any new Arab regime but which, together with the apparent leaning of the junta toward Egypt, indicated that Libyan propaganda at least would be more stridently anti-Israel.

Had Been Moderate

The Libyan monarchy gave only lukewarm backing to calls from the Arab militants for the destruction of Israel and was a member of a moderate group that also included Morocco, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Kuwait. Tunisian officials feared that the new regime would swing the balance within the Arab League in favor of Nasser's policies.

Libya's airports, ports and borders meanwhile remained closed to all outsiders, and there was no indication when they would be opened.

Manero, a 5-Year-Old gray gelding, smiles through his ordeal Monday in a patch of deep mud, while his owner, Mrs. Karen Harlow, weeps over his fate. She led him into the mud pit near Richmond, Va., during a Labor Day ride and it took a wrecking truck and four hours of labor to get him out.

Vacationing Nixon Works, Also Takes Time to Relax

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon is no devotee of the strenuous life—he won't tackle the surfboard his daughters gave him for his birthday. But he has the time and places these days for golf and swimming and "renewal."

Here at the Western White House, most weekday mornings usually are given over to four or five hours of the tasks no president ever escapes—paper work and conferences. But 2,500 miles from Washington, the volume is less, and afternoons and weekends normally are free.

So Nixon spins off by helicopter to the fairways or beaches almost every afternoon. Occasionally he takes a rather aimless drive in the evening when his long-time close friend from Key Biscayne, Fla., C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo is around. Now and then he gathers up the family and goes out to dinner at one of the scores of restaurants nearby.

Strenuous Life

A bit palatatively, Nixon mentioned the strenuous life, surf-boarding, renewal and President Teddy Roosevelt last Wednesday. He was standing beneath skyscraper-tall Redwood trees and dedicating a Lady Bird Johnson Grove to the former first lady, in Redwoods National Park, just below the Oregon border.

The President said that while he is on vacation—"if a president ever takes a vacation"—he sometimes has a chance to read in the evenings and had been scanning a biography of Theodore Roosevelt. One point, he said, came through clearly:

"That he, as President of the United States, found that he always received renewed strength from going to the great outdoors. He, of course was known as the President who believed in the strenuous life. I am not sure that I can go as far as he did in that respect—I won't even ride a surfboard."

The first Roosevelt, Nixon said, was renewed by going to the West and then back to the awesome duties of the White House.

Incomplete Sentence

Then, in a rambling, incomplete sentence, the President indicated he would be following the past president westward to the grove of Redwoods, to realize what a few moments of solitude in this magnificent place can mean, what it can mean to a man who is president or so. Now that the President may be the burdens of all your tasks, and then that renewing that comes from it."

For Nixon, though, there is no tilting back in a rocker on the golfing president in the pattern of the late Dwight D. Eisenhower, whom he served as vice president.

For one five-day stretch, Nixon didn't miss an afternoon on one course or another. Private and military courses are open to him, and he has ranged as far as 70 to 100 miles by helicopter to reach them.

Sees Football Game

Sports fan Nixon doubled up a bit on one flight to play the Los Angeles Country Club course with his most constant opponent, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, and stay over for a night football game between the Los Angeles Rams and Kansas City Chiefs.

The President had a cryptic appraisal of his golf game when he turned up in Yorba Linda, where he was born 56 years ago. A woman spectator inquired how his game was going.

"Now and then" he answered.

Nixon hadn't golfed for more than a year until he tackled a course at Miami, Fla., a month or so ago. Now that the President is finding time for the game, Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon was "shooting a little better and getting to like it a little better."

There was no word whether Nixon had broken 90, as he has in the past.
